TarHeelBlue.com Focus:

THE RINGLEADER

by Adam Lucas, TarHeelBlue.com

John Henson is amazed by Justin Watts. Not by the senior's athleticism, although he's sneakily one of the highest jumpers on the roster. Not by his selfless dedication to the team, although Watts played out of position in the post for much of last year because of a lack of big man depth.

No, when Watts is mentioned, Henson immediately mentions the senior's jewelry collection.

"Justin has, like, five rings," Henson says incredulously. "He's got rings from tournaments and championships and all kinds of things. Any time you win a ring, that's something you have to respect."

For the record, Watts has four rings. He has two national championship rings from 2009—one issued by the NCAA and one issued by the school. He has an ACC championship ring from 2009, when the Tar Heels claimed the regular season title. And he added a fourth in 2011, when Carolina won another league regular season championship.

Watts doesn't parade his winnings around the locker room, so he's not quite sure how Henson calculated his tally.

"I keep them at my mother's house," Watts says. "She has them on display. I think I may have worn one of them one time to church, but that was it. I don't want to take the chance of something happening to them, so I keep them up there on the shelf."

The goal for his senior season is to add to that collection. Watts and Tyler Zeller are attempting to become the first Tar Heels ever to play on two national championship teams. The 6-foot-5 Watts isn't entirely certain what his role will be in 2011-12. Carolina has replenished some of the post depth, adding James Michael McAdoo, Desmond Hubert and Jackson Simmons to go with Henson and Zeller.

This season, it might be that more minutes are available on the wing, where Leslie McDonald's offseason knee injury could open some playing time. Because of that uncertainty, Watts didn't spend his offseason preparing for one particular senior role. Instead, he worked on his game as a whole, so he'll be ready to contribute on the perimeter or in the post, whatever the coaching staff asks of him.

As the lone scholarship seniors on a talented team with plenty of expectations, Zeller and Watts will also have a leadership role. Watts is not naturally a vocal person, but learned from watching players like Danny Green and Marcus Ginyard earlier in his career that it's not always the person talking the loudest who provides the leadership.

"You watch and learn when you're a freshman and sophomore," he says. "That teaches you what the freshmen will need to hear, because you remember what you needed to hear when you were a freshman.

"Being a leader doesn't mean yelling at people. It can mean that if we have weights, make sure everyone knows. Freshmen may not know how important it is to be on time and do the little things. If we have weights at 3:00, don't get there at 2:55. Be there at 2:30. They may think small things are a big deal, but it goes a long way towards avoiding distractions."

MORE THAN A MIND

by Adam Lucas, TarHeelBlue.com

Carolina's recruitment of Tyler Zeller was as simple as a quadratic equation. Or, more precisely, it actually included some quadratic equations.

Zeller, who did a finance internship last summer and took corporate finance during summer school in 2011, was a highly sought-after high school prospect who fielded hundreds of recruiting phone calls. So he had to find a way to multitask.

"When Coach (Joe) Holladay used to call me during recruiting, I would do my calculus homework while I was talking to him," Zeller says. "He never knew I was doing it, and I was paying attention to what he said to me. But I've always been good with numbers."

He's not talking about numbers like points and rebounds, although as a junior he quietly tied for the team lead in scoring and finished second in rebounding on his way to second-team All-ACC honors. Instead, he's talking about…well, let's be honest. I'm not exactly sure what he is talking about.

Zeller tries to explain the differences between the various sides of investment banking. It sounds something like this, which I have transcribed word-for-word in the hopes that future scientists will be able to interpret what he's saying: "In investment banking you value mortgages, bonds, stocks, loans, interest, things like that. You have to value the stocks, so there's always going to be an element that deals only with numbers. There's also an element of valuing the managers and their strategies and the business as a whole. You can do profiles and reduce the risk as much as possible to try and remove all systematic risk. That's what I like. I like the challenge of evaluating people and considering the value of stocks and bonds."

Got all that? This is where you might not be surprised to learn that Zeller was the first Tar Heel since fellow Hoosier Eric Montross to earn first-team Academic All-America honors.

Oh, and in more sportswriter-friendly news: Tyler Zeller is also very good at basketball.

So good, in fact, that he pondered making a move to the NBA after his junior season, when he was an essential part of a Carolina team that advanced to the regional final.

Zeller, the middle child of three basketball-playing brothers (his older brother played at Notre Dame and his younger brother is a freshman at Indiana), did consider professional basketball. Ultimately, however, he felt injuries during his Carolina career had prevented him from soaking up the maximum college experience.

"Really, I've only played one year here," Zeller says. "My freshman year, I was part of that team but it was a very small role. They were very talented, and they just didn't need me as much. I came back for my sophomore year, and I got hurt. I was frustrated after those two years. We went to the NIT and I still hadn't really played in the NCAA Tournament.

"Last year was the first year I truly was able to do that. To get there and see that excitement, now I know what it's like to play a part in a big-time team. We've got the opportunity to go a little further this year and hopefully win it all. I wanted to be a part of that."

HENSON KEEPS WORKING

by Adam Lucas, TarHeelBlue.com

Chances are that John Henson has a long future ahead of him in professional basketball. Elite athletes who stand 6-foot-11, 220 pounds (more on that later), have a tendency of finding gainful employment. When that period of his life is over, however, Henson might have a future in the journalism field.

The Tampa native is among the most prolific tweeters on a Tar Heel team filled with social media addicts. The difference in Henson's feed? He's actually broken some news, albeit unintentionally.

Henson's sister, Amber, is a freshman on Duke's women's basketball team this season. This is a storyline certain to be rehashed numerous times this year. The younger Henson's recruitment gave her brother excellent sources.

That's how, via Twitter, he was able to welcome former Duke assistant Trisha Stafford-Odom to Chapel Hill well in advance of the school's official announcement. When asked about his Woodward and Bernstein moment, Henson looks a little sheepish.

"I did do that, didn't I?" the junior says. "I didn't think anybody realized that."

Before he embarks on his news-gathering career, Henson has some basketball to play. After a sophomore season that showed one of the most dramatic in-season improvements in recent Tar Heel memory, he spent his summer focusing on his all-around game. Already among the nation's leaders in rebounding (his 15.1 rebounds per 40 minutes ranked second in the country last season), he's refined his offensive touch. The player who once had to be benched at the end of games to avoid the risk of having him shoot free throws has developed a face-up jumper to go with his post moves. "I'm not going to say it's Tim Duncan-esque," Henson says, "but it'll keep the defender honest."

Most of his points will still come in the paint, where his left-handed hook shot became one of the league's most consistent signature shots. It was such a Henson trademark, in fact, that it perplexed even some Carolina alums.

This summer, while watching Henson operate in a pickup game, Brendan Haywood marveled at Henson putting the ball on the floor with his right hand. "He's doing that with his off hand!" the member of the 2011 NBA champions said.

Informed that Henson was actually right-handed, Haywood refused to believe it.

"No, he's not," he said. "He always shoots that lefty hook. He's left-handed."

Despite Haywood's contention, Henson is, in fact, a righty. It's just that he's ambidextrous around the rim to the point that he often prefers his left hand. Another item on his summer to-do list: "I've worked a lot on my right-hand hook," Henson says. "I needed something as a counter move to that left-hand hook."

As always, for the player whose weight has been often scrutinized, there were frequent summer workout sessions with Jonah Sahratian. He's worked on adding strength, and while his 220 pounds may not be chiseled, there's some noticeable definition.

That's been an asset during summer pickup games, when Henson has often been matched against players like Haywood, Sean May, Tyler Hansbrough and even occasional Chapel Hill visitor Blake Griffin.

"The strength is much more of a factor than just putting on pounds," Henson says. "It gives you more confidence. You can take some hits and keep playing, whereas before it might have totally taken you out of the play."

THE LONG ROAD BACK

by Adam Lucas, TarHeelBlue.com

Just as he expected throughout the spring and summer, Leslie McDonald's fall semester schedule finds him going from class to the Smith Center, where his Carolina teammates have regularly scheduled pickup games after strength and conditioning workouts.

There's one very serious hitch in McDonald's plan, however: during those games, he's sitting on the sideline, limited to only an observer's role after undergoing knee surgery on August 3 to repair a torn meniscus and reconstruct his right ACL.

"I try to knock out my rehab right after class so I can watch the guys play pickup," McDonald says. "It's fun watching your teammates play and seeing how everyone has improved since last year. At the same time, it's hard because you want to be out there, and some of the things you were doing before, you're not able to do now."

McDonald's rehab has been productive. Less than four weeks after surgery, he was already walking without a brace. Still, he's many months away from transitioning from simply getting healthy to playing competitive ACC basketball.

"The original timeframe for ACL repair is six months," McDonald says. "I had ACL and meniscus repair, which will take a little bit longer, like seven to eight months...The doctors say I'm doing well, but they want to take precautions because you can reinjure these things easily."

Doing the math on his rehab timeframe delivers a potential return date very late in the 2011-12 season. Right now, less than two months after the operation, it's still much too early to speculate about any sort of role for this year's team. Of course, McDonald has considered it. It's what he thought about every single day after the loss to Kentucky, during a summer spent focusing on improving his ball-handling and shooting in an effort to make himself into a more consistent player.

But a serious injury has a way of refocusing those goals. First, he'll try to get back into optimal shape. Then, he'll take a look at the calendar and see what the possibilities might be.

"I have to mentally and physically be ready to put myself out there," McDonald says. "I don't want to be detrimental to the team. I want to be in tip-top shape and play at a high level...If I'm ready, I'll give it a go. If not, why not take a whole year and physically and mentally get ready?"

The Memphis native was able to get some first-hand advice on the subject from Bobby Frasor this summer. The 2009 national champion also went through ACL surgery during his Carolina career, when he learned there was much more to making a comeback than simply being cleared by the doctor. Being declared fit for basketball is one thing. Trusting the knee to make high-speed cuts and jumps is another.

"Bobby's words of encouragement were to take my time," McDonald says. "He told me to go at rehab hard. He knows how badly I want to play and he knows my pain right now. From seeing Bobby right now, he looks like he never had an injury. He said what he had to do was really go hard in rehab and take his time with everything."

TarHeelBlue.com Focus:

BACK TO HIS ROOTS

by Adam Lucas, TarHeelBlue.com

When Dexter Strickland wanted to return to his roots, he didn't go to Rucker Park or The Cage on West 4th Street. He went to YouTube.

Strickland spent most of his sophomore season battling a nagging knee injury. His numbers, especially in conference games, were not spectacular—6.2 points per game against league foes, 37.4 percent shooting from the field, and just 3 for 21 from the three-point line.

But by the NCAA Tournament, when he says he was playing pain-free for the first time, his stats crept up to 10.3 points per game and 55.7 percent from the field. He was terrific against Kentucky in the 2011 regional final, when he scored 11 points, grabbed four rebounds, had three steals, and didn't commit a turnover while playing ferocious defense.

And yet, when he evaluated his sophomore campaign, he decided he could have done more. A trip home to New Jersey—when the Tar Heels played the Wildcats in Newark last March, Strickland was greeted like a conquering hero—reminded him of the player he still believes he can be.

"I think going home helped me recognize who I am," Strickland says. "Before I came to Carolina, I was always a scorer. Once I came here, people started to see me as a defensive player. I want to be a defensive player, but I want to be a scorer, too.

"When I went home, I touched base with what kind of player I really am. When I was in the recruiting process, I sent highlight videos of myself to some of the coaches. I watched those, and I watched some high school YouTube videos. It gave me a sense of my game again, of how I can fit in with Carolina while still being myself."

Strickland says he's capable of blending the way he wants to play with the expectations set forth by Roy Williams. He is well aware that he'll be watching his YouTube videos from the bench if he can't find the right mix.

"I have to focus on what will help our team," Strickland says. "It doesn't matter that in high school I felt the most comfortable scoring off the dribble. For our team to win, I have to be able to catch and shoot. That's one of the things I've been working on most this summer. My outside shooting and my midrange game are there. I don't think Carolina fans have seen the type of player I can become."

He is reminded that playing outside the framework of the Carolina style of play, and especially outside the framework of this particular offensively bountiful team, can be a quick way to lose minutes.

And then, for all his talk about a different game or even a different Dexter Strickland, his plan for his junior season sounds exactly like the player everyone already knows.

"At the end of the day, Coach Williams wants someone who plays hard and gives everything he has," Strickland says. "That's what I did in high school, that's what I've done here, and that's what I'm going to do this year. I'm going to give my all. I'm going to play defense as hard as I can. And when you work hard like that, good things happen."

A FORWARD THINKER

by Adam Lucas, TarHeelBlue.com

Amidst all the baying about the fantastic lifestyle afforded to an NBA player, it's startling to find the most clear-eyed assessment delivered by a 19-year-old college sophomore from Iowa.

This particular sophomore, Harrison Barnes, could have stepped directly into that lifestyle this summer. But he chose to return to North Carolina, so it seems reasonable to inquire as to why—when so many of his peers are in a hurry to minimize the college experience—he's back in Chapel Hill.

Barnes, typically, is thoughtful. This is nothing unusual, unless you're unfamiliar with him, in which case it can be disarming. All his interviews are thoughtful. You get out of them exactly what you put into them. Ask him something unique, and he's likely to pause before speaking, as if he's going through a rough draft in his mind. What of this decision he has made to put off becoming an adult for at least one more year?

"Being around Carolina, you can see the excitement, the joy and the pride the former players have in coming back here and knowing they won a championship here," Barnes says. "That's something I want to do. The money and the NBA, that stuff is very provocative because it's right here, right now. But to be able to come back to a program like this years from now and look at what you've done, that is very important."

In an instant gratification society, Barnes seems like a throwback. Here, sitting in the Smith Center, he's already weighing the value of being able to walk back into this building in five years with a sturdy Tar Heel resume.

To help achieve that goal, he spent his summer refining the parts of his game he considered lacking during a stellar freshman season. But it wasn't a perfect freshman campaign. Barnes shot just 42.3 percent from the field and committed 72 turnovers.

"Coach Williams asked me to get more well-rounded as a player," Barnes says of his pre-summer conversation with the Tar Heel head coach. "He wants me to be more selective with the shots I take and improve my ball-handling."

His summer workouts led him to a kindred spirit in Chapel Hill in Shammond Williams, a 1998 graduate who is a regular at the Smith Center pickup games. Williams is unfailingly honest with the current Tar Heels, always willing to point out where a screen could be stiffer or a pass could be delivered more accurately.

"I learned a lot from him," Barnes says. "It could be something in the weight room or it could be a pointer in pickup. It's easy to become complacent in the summer because you don't have those routine checkups that you have during the season, when you're always playing games. During the season, you go out and play a game and see what you need to improve. In the summer, you have to stay motivated. And I feel like a learned a lot this summer and became a better player."

HEALTHY AGAIN

by Adam Lucas, TarHeelBlue.com

Reggie Bullock doesn't remember a specific play when he knew. But after a summer of changing directions, fast-break dunks and full mobility, all he knows is that he knows he's back.

The sophomore endured a frustrating freshman campaign complete with personal tragedy (the loss of his grandmother, a central figure in his life) and basketball struggles. After battling a lingering knee injury early in the season, Bullock tore the lateral meniscus in his left knee in the Feb. 27 win over Maryland. He had surgery on March 7 to correct the injury and did not play again.

"I probably played up to 70 percent of my potential," Bullock says now in assessing his first year at Carolina. "I can do more than what I showed last year. I want to bring rebounding, defensive intensity, and anything Coach wants me to do to the team."

His teammates believe he may be poised to demonstrate what everyone missed last season. Among both alums and current Tar Heels, he was one of the most frequently mentioned players who have impressed at the regular summer pickup games. Now, with full confidence in his knee, he more closely resembles the player who earned first-team Parade All-America honors at Kinston High School.

A return to health means a more diverse game for a player who was sometimes limited to simply being a jump-shooter as a rookie; in conference games, 61.1 percent of his field goal attempts were three-pointers, tied for the highest percentage on the team and a testament to his inability to create shots other than stand-still jumpers.

"I've worked on becoming a better ball-handler and creating for myself," Bullock says. "I've got more confidence in my shot."

Because of his limited action as a freshman, Carolina fans never really got to know their latest homegrown product. Kinston is largely a split Carolina-NC State town, a place where Jerry Stackhouse remains the standard by which other basketball players are judged. Stackhouse was a pre-internet phenomenon, a player the town usually shut down to watch play for the Vikings—and later, the Tar Heels.

Bullock had a front row seat for that show. Stackhouse lived on Bright Street in Kinston. Bullock and his family lived on Carl Court, less than a quarter mile from Stackhouse's home. The odds of one tiny block of North Carolina producing two Tar Heels are longer than a Bullock maximum-range three-pointer.

"We had similar height, so people would always compare us," Bullock says. "They would say he was more aggressive and I was more laid-back. I was probably a little better shooter than him in high school. People in Kinston tell stories about him going through the lane, taking two people with him, and dunking the ball. He's the type of player that you still hear about in Kinston if you're a little kid growing up playing basketball."

"I can't say enough about Kendall's ability to spread the ball around. He understands if somebody hasn't touched the ball in a while how to get them a shot. If somebody has hit a lot of shots, he knows to go back to them. He does a great job knowing who to get a shot, where to get them that shot and then understanding exactly where the person wants the ball."

THE MARSHALL PLAN

by Adam Lucas, TarHeelBlue.com

Kendall Marshall has watched a lot of basketball this offseason. It's just that he hasn't seen much new basketball.

The Carolina point guard spent part of his summer watching tape of several games from his freshman season. He hasn't watched the Kentucky game yet—except for Harrison Barnes, none of his teammates have been able to watch the season-ending loss just yet—but he's reviewed almost everything else, some multiple times.

"I don't want to have to start all over again this season," Marshall says. "I want to build from last year as a stepping stone. So I've watched what defensive concepts other teams are using against us, what they try to do offensively, and also what counter-attacks worked for us."

Not many sophomore point guards in Carolina history have been able to build from a freshman season that was All-ACC caliber. Marshall's freshman season—when he led the league in assists, tied for first in assist-error in conference games and set the UNC record for assists in an ACC game (16 against Florida State) while compiling a highlight reel of neatly threaded passes—has reached almost mythical status among Carolina fans.

Marshall, who has grown taller since his freshman measurements of 6-foot-3 and also added 10 pounds through hard work with Jonas Sahratian, knows his sophomore season could be more challenging. Last season, he snuck up on some opponents. This season, as Shammond Williams has frequently advised him in those pickup games, he'll be prominent on the opposing scouting report.

The Dumfries, Va., native will always be a passer. That's his signature, and that's why other players are drawn to him.

But at the request of Roy Williams, Marshall tuned his offensive game over the summer. "I want to be able to keep defenses honest, so I worked on my shot," he says. "I have a little more air underneath it, but one of the most important things is I don't second-guess myself as much about shooting it. I'm focusing on knowing I am a good shooter and I have to let it go."

In addition to his basketball work, his sessions with Sahratian have been designed to keep Marshall on the court as much as possible. He averaged 34.9 minutes per game over the final 16 games of his freshman campaign. To maintain that demanding workload for a full season, he's focused on becoming more durable. He also wants to improve his quickness to enable him to stay in front of the elite point guards he'll face this season—and to ensure he has plenty of educational film to watch next summer.

For all his accomplishments as Carolina's head coach – including two NCAA championships, three Final Fours and more than 200 wins in just eight seasons – the 2010-11 season may have been Roy Williams' finest body of work. The Asheville, N.C., native led the Tar Heels to a 29-8 record, the ACC regular-season championship, a No. 2 seed in the NCAA East Regional and a spot in the NCAA Tournament's Elite Eight.

UNC accomplished that despite having lost 13 players in the previous two years, including the team's leading returning scorer a week before practice began in October and another starter midway through the conference schedule. The Tar Heels went 14-2 in ACC play, but did not have a single player make the All-ACC first-team or earn ACC Player of the Week honors even one time. Carolina started two freshmen, two sophomores and a junior for much of the season, and only one player who started a game in the 2010 NIT started in the 2011 NCAA Tournament.

The Tar Heels began the season ranked eighth in the Associated Press poll, fell out of the Top 25 completely for nine weeks at mid-season, but climbed back into the rankings in late January and finished No. 7 in the final poll.

Williams was named ACC Coach of the Year for the second time and also won district coach of the year honors by the USBWA. The Tar Heels finished atop the ACC standings for the fifth time in the last seven years – Williams' teams have finished first in the Big 8/12 or ACC 14 times in his 23 seasons as a head coach.

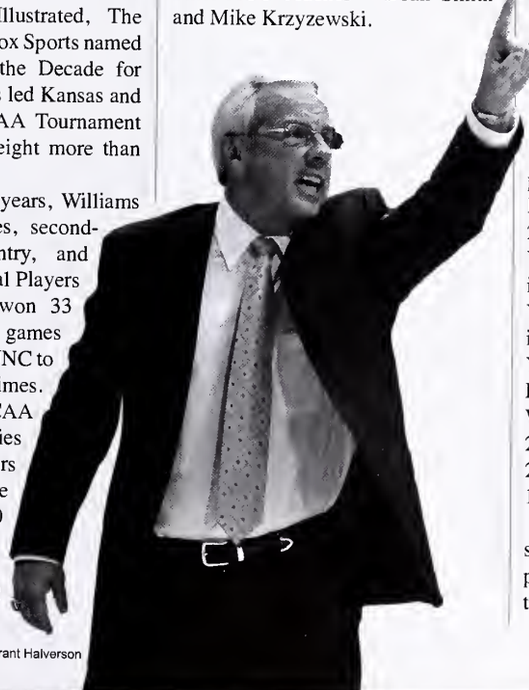
A member of the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame and College Basketball Hall of Fame, Williams has led Carolina to national championships in 2005 and 2009, another Final Four in 2008, additional Elite Eights in 2007 and 2011, four NCAA Tournament No. 1 seeds, six Associated Press Top 10 final rankings, five ACC regular-season titles, two ACC Tournament crowns, four 30-win seasons and developed nine first-round NBA draft picks.

ESPN, Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News and Fox Sports named him the Coach of the Decade for 2000-2009. Williams led Kansas and Carolina to 33 NCAA Tournament wins in the 2000s, eight more than any other coach.

Over the last 10 years, Williams has won 288 games, second-most in the country, and coached four National Players of the Year. He's won 33 NCAA Tournament games and led Kansas and UNC to the Final Four five times. That's more NCAA Tournament victories and more Final Fours than any coach in the nation in those 10 years.

His teams at Kansas and UNC have a record of 643-163 and his winning percentage of .798 is the fourth highest in the history of college basketball and No. 1 among active coaches. No other coach in NCAA history has won 600 or more games in fewer than 24 seasons, a mark he hit in his 22nd season.

On April 6, 2009, the Tar Heels beat Michigan State to capture UNC's second NCAA Tournament title in five years. In 2005, Carolina beat top-ranked Illinois to win Williams' first national title. He is one of 13 coaches to win multiple national championships, joining an illustrious list that includes only two other ACC coaches – Dean Smith and Mike Krzyzewski.



Grant Halverson

In 2010, The Sporting News surveyed a panel of 50 former ACC standout players and asked them which current ACC coach they would want to play for other than their alma mater's – Williams received 19 votes. No other coach received more than 8.5 votes.

His Tar Heel teams are 225-62 (.784) and he's set UNC records for most wins for one year (36 in 2007-08), two years (70 in 2008-09), three years (101 from 2007-09), four years (124 from 2006-09), five years (157 from 2005-09), six years (176 from 2004-09), seven years (206 from 2005-11) and is tied for the most in any eight-year span (225, tied with 1991-98).

At Carolina, Williams has coached two National Players of the Year (Sean May in 2005, Tyler Hansbrough in 2008), two Bob Cousy Award recipients as the best point guard in the country (Raymond Felton in 2005, Ty Lawson in 2009), two ACC Players of the Year (Hansbrough in 2008, Lawson in 2009), two ACC Athletes of the Year (May in 2005, Hansbrough in 2008), four ACC Rookies of the Year (Marvin Williams in 2005, Hansbrough in 2006, Brandan Wright in 2007, Harrison Barnes in 2011), two Final Four MOPs (May in 2005, Wayne Ellington in 2009) and 12 NBA Draft picks.

Hansbrough set the all-time ACC scoring record and became the first player in league history to earn first-team All-America and first-team

All-ACC honors in each of his four seasons. He also became Carolina's all-time leading rebounder and set the NCAA record for made free throws.

Williams is one of the most successful coaches in the history of the NCAA Tournament. His teams are 58-19 in 21 seasons and he has the third-highest winning percentage in NCAA Tournament history (.753) for coaches with at least 30 games.

Carolina is 24-5 in the NCAA Tournament under Williams, a winning percentage of .828 that is the highest for any coach with at least 25 NCAA Tournament games at one school. In the last seven years, the Tar Heels have advanced to at least the regional final five times – no other school has more than three appearances in the Final 8 in that same span.

The Williams ledger includes:

• 418 wins at Kansas and 225 at Carolina, the second-most at each school behind Phog Allen and Smith, respectively

• A record of 918-224 in 33 seasons as a collegiate head coach and assistant coach

• Seven Final Fours, fourth-most in history behind John Wooden, Smith and Krzyzewski

• Nine 30-win seasons, the second-most all-time (and 17 seasons with 25 or more wins)

• 21 seasons with 20 or more wins, including every year except when he won 19 in his first years at both Kansas and Carolina

• Three consecutive 30-win seasons, the first time Carolina has accomplished that

• 58 NCAA Tournament wins, third-most all-time behind Krzyzewski (73) and Smith (65)

• 77 NCAA Tournament games, third most in history

• 20 consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances, the second-longest streak in NCAA history behind Smith's 23

• 20 consecutive seasons with a win in the NCAA Tournament, the only coach to accomplish that and 21 Tournaments with at least one win

• Seven seasons as the National Coach of the Year (1990, 1991, 1992, 1997, 2005, 2006 and 2009), nine years as conference Coach of the Year (1990, 1992, 1995, 1996, 1997, 2002, 2003, 2006 and 2011)

• Recipient of the 2003 John Wooden Legends of Coaching Award

• One of three coaches (with Frank McGuire and Larry Brown) to lead two different schools to the national championship game, but the only coach to lead two schools to two appearances in the finals (Kansas in 1991 and 2003; Carolina in 2005 and 2009)

• Five ACC regular-season championships in eight seasons, fourth most in ACC history (Smith won 17 in 36 years, Krzyzewski 11 in 31, McGuire six in 24 and Vic Bubas four in 10)

• 14 conference regular-season championships and 18 times in 23 years finishing either first or second in the conference standings

• Winning his 500th game on Dec. 9, 2006, in his 19th season (only coach to do so in less than 20 years)

• Also reached 100, 200, 300, 400 and 600 wins in fewer seasons than any coach

• His teams have been ranked No. 1 in the nation in 10 seasons and at least No. 2 in the country in 15 seasons

• The Associated Press has ranked the Tar Heels in the Top 25 in 130 of 153 polls, including 90 Top 10 rankings, 70 times in the Top 5 and 24 weeks as the No. 1 team in the country.

• Teams have averaged 80 or more points 18 times

Dan Wetzel, national columnist for Yahoo! Sports, wrote in April 2009: "There isn't a more perfect union in college basketball than Roy and Carolina; the ideal combination of style and substance, recruiting might and coaching acumen, of championships won and won and, most certainly, won again."

In February 2009, Forbes named Williams the best basketball coach in the country, choosing him by analyzing win-loss percentages, NCAA Tournament appearances, Final Fours, national championships and recruiting.

Forbes wrote: "A top-notch recruiter and motivator, Williams coaches with an unflappable cool, a trait reflected in his players' calm on the court."

Williams' ability to relate to players and their families, both in the recruiting process and throughout their careers, is something his players speak of when they account for his success.

On March 8, 2009, Senior Day at Carolina, an emotional Hansbrough thanked Williams for living up to a promise Williams made during his recruitment that the coach would always be honest with him.

"He always tells you the straight up truth about what you need to hear, not just what you want to hear," says Hansbrough. "That helped me not only as a player but also as a person."

Williams is one of nine Tar Heels to be enshrined in the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame, joining a group that includes Dean Smith, Michael Jordan, Larry Brown, Billy Cunningham, James Worthy and Bob McAdoo. Twenty-three of his former players from Carolina and Kansas joined him in Springfield, Mass., for the induction ceremony in 2007.

From 2007-2009 Carolina went 101-14, winning 21 more games than any other ACC school. Over the last six seasons, Carolina went 33-15 in ACC road games.

The 2009 Tar Heels won their fourth ACC regular-season title in the last five years, won their fourth straight game at Duke and landed a No. 1 seed in the NCAA Tournament for the third consecutive year. In the NCAA Tournament, Carolina put on a stunning display, winning six games by an average of 20.2 points, the highest margin in 13 years. UNC became the first team to win all six games by a dozen or more points.

UNC led the nation in winning percentage (89.5) and scoring margin (+17.8) and was second in scoring (89.9 ppg). That was the seventh time in eight years his teams had finished in the top four nationally in scoring (first in 2002 and 2005, second in 2007, 2008 and 2009, third in 2003 and fourth in 2004). His teams have averaged 84.3 points at UNC with the Tar Heels reaching 100 or more points 36 times.

His teams have finished in the Top 10 nationally in scoring 10 times, in scoring margin 15 times, in field goal percentage 12 times, in win-loss percentage 10 times and in field goal defense four times. Also, his squads have finished in the top seven nationally in assists per game in seven of the last 10 years and in the top eight nationally in rebounding margin in 10 of the last 15 years.

In 2008, Williams led the Tar Heels to a school-record 36 wins, ACC regular-season and Tournament titles and a berth in the Final Four with a win over Louisville in the regional final. Hansbrough won every major National Player of the Year award. He is the fourth to play for Williams – along with Jayhawks Drew Gooden and Nick Collison and UNC's Sean May – to win National Player of the Year honors since 2002.

The 2005 national championship capped a season in which the Tar Heels went 33-4, including a 14-2 mark in the ACC. Carolina led the nation in scoring average, scoring margin and assists and became the third team in history to lead the nation in scoring and win the NCAA championship.

In 2006, Carolina faced the loss of its top seven scorers, which was unprecedented in ACC history. Sports Illustrated predicted Carolina would miss the NCAA Tournament and the Tar Heels were picked by the media to finish sixth in the ACC. However, Williams earned National and ACC Coach of the Year honors by leading the youngest team in Carolina history to a second-place ACC finish, a win at top-ranked Duke and a No. 3 seed in the NCAA Tournament.

Williams became the UNC head coach on April 14, 2003, 10 days after leading Kansas to the NCAA championship game against Syracuse.

Williams was assistant coach at Carolina from 1978-88. Working for Dean Smith, he helped coach such standouts as Mike O'Koren, Al Wood, James Worthy, Sam Perkins, Matt Doherty, Michael Jordan, Brad Daugherty, Kenny Smith, Joe Wolf, Steve Hale, Jeff Lebo, J.R. Reid and Scott Williams.

Carolina won the NCAA title in 1982, finished second in 1981 and won or shared six ACC regular-season titles and three ACC Tournament championships.

Kansas hired Williams on July 8, 1988, replacing another UNC Hall of Famer, Larry Brown. Williams coached a number of the finest Kansas players in history, including Mark Randall, Adonis Jordan, Rex Walters, Greg Ostertag, Scot Pollard, Jacque Vaughn, Raef LaFrentz, Paul Pierce, Drew Gooden, Nick Collison and Kirk Hinrich.

The Jayhawks averaged 27.9 wins per season with a high of 35 in 1997-98. He also won 30 in 1989-90, 34 in 1996-97, 33 in 2001-02 and 30 in 2002-03. The Jayhawks reached the Sweet 16 nine times and the Final Eight on five occasions.

In seven years of Big 12 Conference play, his teams went 94-18, capturing the regular-season title in 1997, 1998, 2002 and 2003 and the postseason tournament crown in 1997, 1998 and 1999. In 2001-02, KU became the first Big 12 team to go 16-0 in league play. From 1995-98, Kansas was a combined 123-17 – an average of 30.8 wins per season. The Jayhawks went 201-17 (92.2) in Allen Fieldhouse, and won 62 consecutive games in Allen from February 1994 to December 1998.

Williams has coached players to 25 first-team all-conference honors, including eight UNC selections. Seven players – five Jayhawks, Hansbrough and Lawson – have won conference player of the year honors.

Hansbrough and Lawson earned first-team All-America honors in 2009. That marked the 12th and 13th first-team All-America seasons by Williams's players.

Gooden (2002), Collison (2003), May (2005) and Hansbrough (2008) won National Player of the Year honors and LaFrentz (1997 and 1998), Pierce (1998), Gooden (2002), Collison (2003) and Hansbrough (2007, 2008 and 2009) have earned consensus first-team All-America honors.

The NBA has selected 20 of his players in the first round, including Hansbrough (13th), Lawson (18th) and Ellington (28th) in 2009 and Ed Davis (13th) in 2010. In 2005, UNC became the first program to have four players chosen in the NBA Lottery.

Williams emphasizes academic development, as well. Every Carolina senior in his tenure has either received his degree or is on track to do so. Sean May, the 2005 Final Four MVP, entered the NBA Draft after his junior year but later earned his degree. Marvin Williams, who went to the NBA in 2005 after just one season, has taken summer classes in Chapel Hill since and is a junior in academic standing.

Four players have earned first-team Academic All-America honors – Jayhawks Vaughn (twice), Haase and Ryan Robertson and Tar Heel Tyler Zeller – and 36 have earned first-team academic all-conference honors, including Zeller, a three-time recipient.

Williams grew up in the Biltmore area of south Asheville. He attended T.C. Roberson High, where he played for Coach Buddy Baldwin. He played on Carolina's freshman team in 1968-69 and earned a bachelor's degree in education in 1972 and a master's in teaching in 1973.

He began his coaching career in 1973 at Owen High School in Swannanoa, N.C., and was inducted into Owen's Hall of Fame in 2010. He coached for USA Basketball teams in the 1991 World University Games, the 1992 U.S. Olympic Development Team, a U-22 tournament in Argentina in 1993, and the 2004 Olympics in Greece.

Several of his staff and players have gone on to head coaching positions, including Matt Doherty, the late Neil Dougherty, Jerry Green, Steve Robinson, Kevin Stallings, Mark Turgeon and Rex Walters.

Born August 1, 1950, he and his wife, Wanda, a 1972 Carolina graduate, have a son, Scott, and a daughter, Kimberly. Scott earned a business degree from UNC and played point guard on the basketball team in 1997-98 and 1998-99. He and his wife, Katie (Wolford), live in Charlotte, with their sons, Aiden (born in Jan., 2010) and Court (born Aug. 2011). Katie is a 2001 Carolina graduate and former cheerleader. She earned a doctorate in physical therapy from Boston University. Kimberly, who also lives in Charlotte, is a 2002 Carolina graduate with a degree in English and a former member of the UNC dance team.

"His willingness to understand the athlete and get the best out of the athlete is what makes Roy a Hall of Famer — his patience, his knowledge for the game, his effort and diligence to understand the game and understand the player and how they can co-exist.

"To me, that's a Hall of Fame-type guy, someone who makes adjustments according to the personnel rather than forcing his way of thinking on a team or a player. That's not Coach Williams."

ROY WILLIAMS

The Word on Williams ...

"What makes Coach Williams one of the great coaches isn't just his extraordinary record, but his dedication to his players. He's just as serious about making these guys into men and into leaders as he is into making them champions."
— President Barack Obama

"His willingness to understand the athlete and get the best out of the athlete is what makes Roy a Hall of Famer — his patience, his knowledge for the game, his effort and diligence to understand the game and understand the player and how they can co-exist. To me, that's a Hall of Fame-type guy, someone who makes adjustments according to the personnel rather than forcing his way of thinking on a team or a player. That's not Coach Williams."
— Former Tar Heel & Hall of Famer Michael Jordan (UNC '86)

"The amazing thing about Coach Williams is the person everyone sees on TV all the time is really the same guy we see every day. There's nothing fake about him. He is the embodiment of hard work, a guy who never quits, is humble yet confident, is willing to give back to the game, and who teaches us every day the values of education and his players growing as people and players. He's the best there is."
— Marcus Ginyard (UNC '10)

"Roy Williams is one of the select few of the greatest coaches in the entire game of basketball. His move to North Carolina ensures for the foreseeable future excellence both on and off the court. The championships will now fall time after time to Chapel Hill."
— Hall-of-Famer and NBA analyst Bill Walton

"I have never seen one player or one person or one coach who has outcompeted Roy Williams."
— Jay Bilas, ESPN

"Williams recruits to his very up-tempo style of play and uses the depth he recruits."
— ESPN.com

"Coach Williams helped me become a man. He always held me accountable for my actions on the court. He's a father figure and he's my coach."
– Atlanta Hawk Marvin Williams

"Williams is building a new monument to Carolina, which now sets the standard for every other program in the country."
— Dick Weiss, New York Daily News

"There isn't a more perfect union in college basketball than Roy Williams and Carolina; the ideal combination of style and substance, recruiting might and coaching acumen, of championships won and won and, most certainly, won again."
— Dan Wetzel, Yahoo! Sports

"Roy has done a phenomenal job of sustaining this program to the highest level. He has a commitment to excellence, attention to detail and the ability to recruit some outstanding student-athletes."
— John Kuester (UNC '77), longtime NBA coach

"I love honesty, and Coach Williams is going to give you that every time you talk to him about any subject. He is absolutely what he was when he came in my house to recruit me. I got lucky for someone to come into my house who is a great person, a great man and is still the same person today."
— Deon Thompson (UNC '10)

"Williams is a winner, not only on the basketball court but also as a person. Collegiate sports need more coaches such as Williams, men and women who set an example for others to try and match."
— Lawrence (Kan.) Journal-World

"Roy is as good as it gets in a person. There's nothing deceptive about him. He is what he is — a wonderful person and a great coach. If you watch his teams, you know they've been coached. If you go to his practices, you know why his teams are successful. His players play the right way. They're team-oriented. They play a fun way offensively. They're aggressive. He changes defenses. He's just a wonderful coach."
— Hall of Famer Jerry West, longtime NBA executive

"Coach means so much to me. He's been not only a coach but a positive role model and a father figure."
– Wayne Simien (Kansas '05)

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

"I absolutely believe that what I learned as a Carolina basketball player is transferable to the business world. When I became CEO, we did a lot of leadership training. In that training I talked a good deal about the values of the Carolina program, and about what I learned and how I apply it to business. The discipline, values, teamwork and a lot of the organization can easily be applied to the business world from the culture that Coach Smith created and is still in practice at Carolina today."

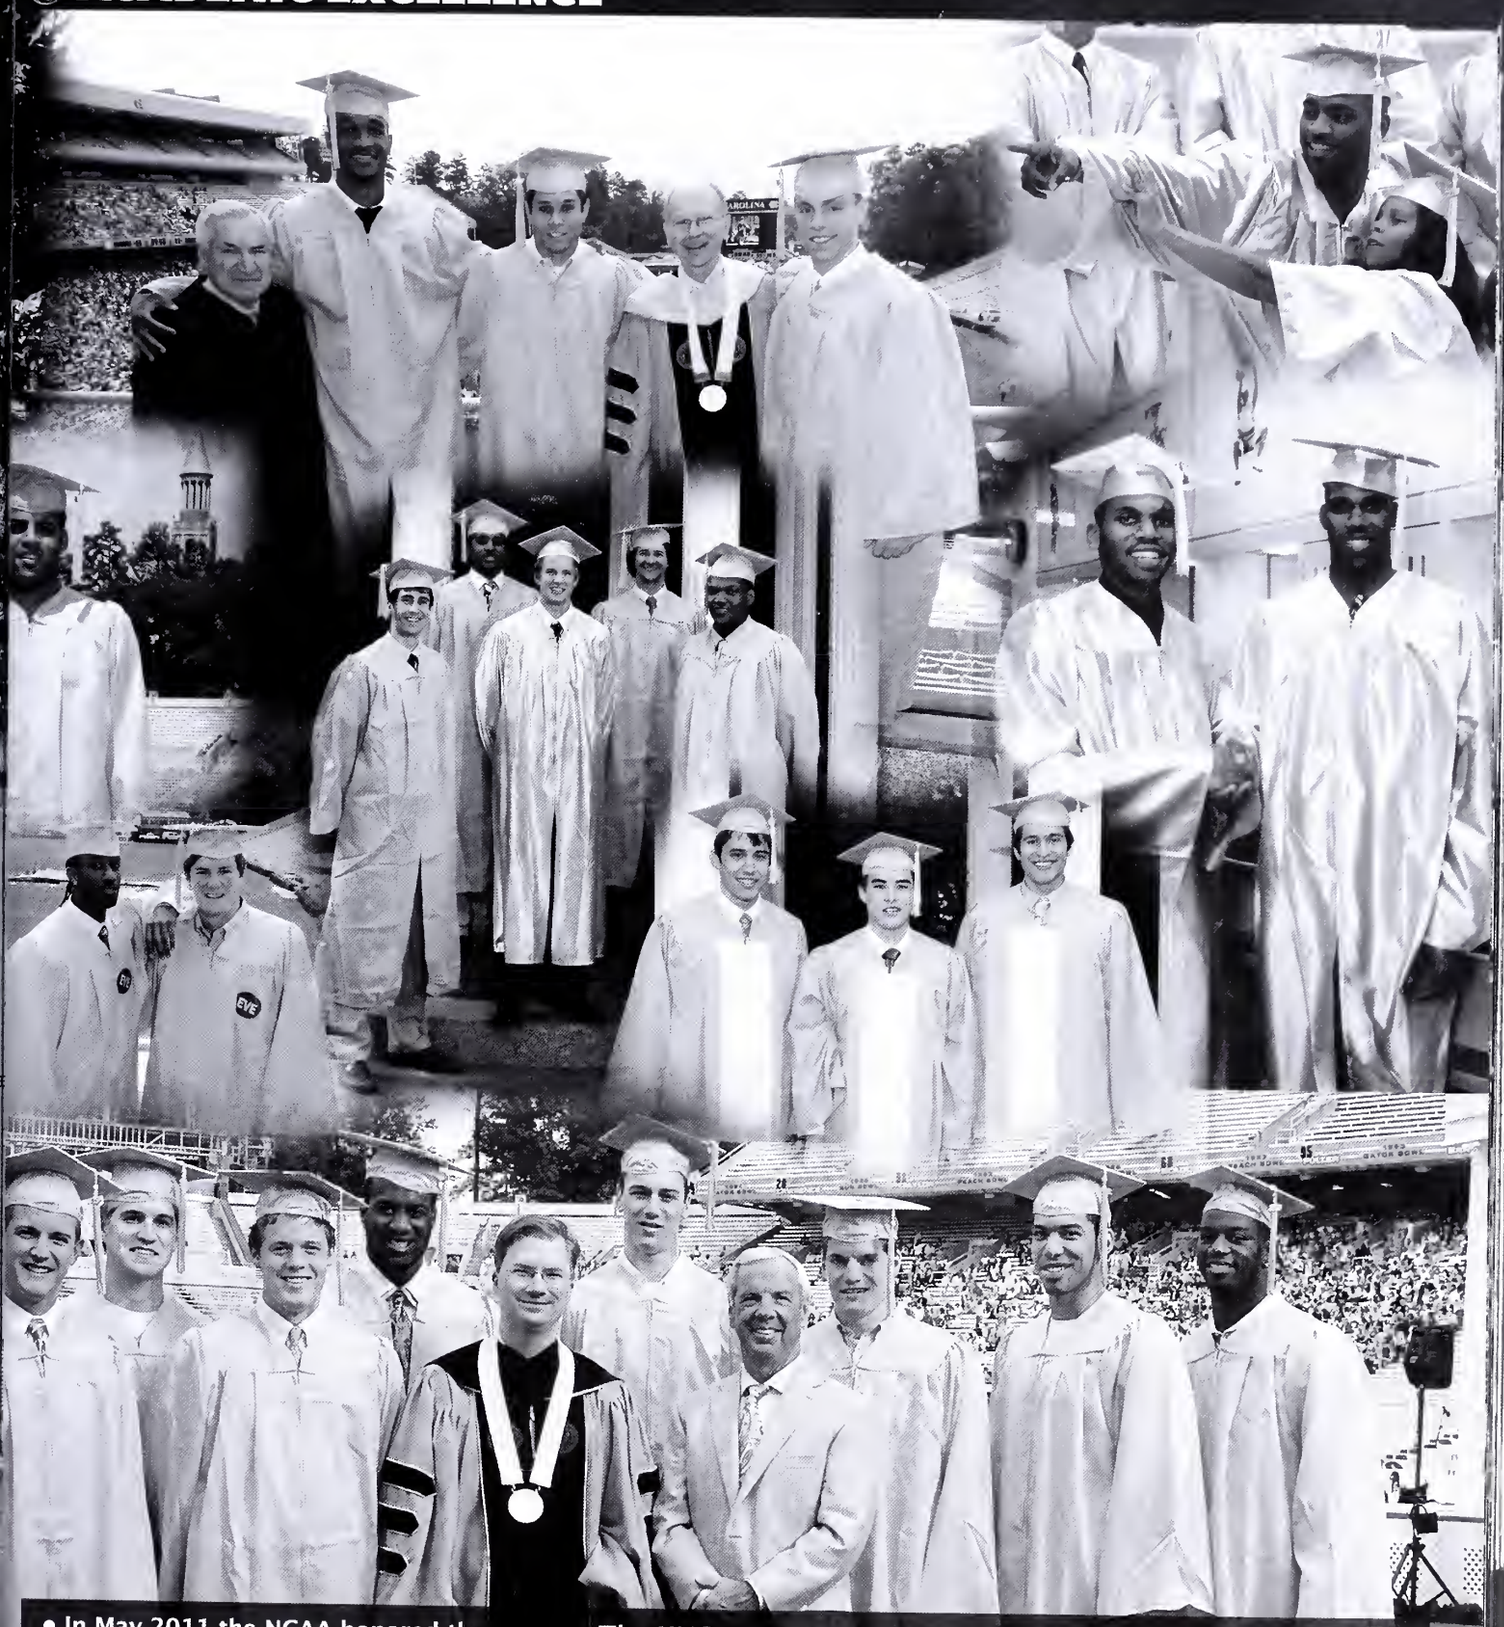
ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE



• In May 2011 the NCAA honored the Carolina's men's basketball team for having an Academic Progress Rate among the top 10 percent nationally. The team has been honored six years in a row. The Tar Heels scored a perfect 1,000 APR in 2008-09 and had the highest APR in the ACC for the four-year period from 2005-06 to 2008-09.

• The UNC men's basketball team posted a graduation success rate of 88 percent, 22 points higher than the national average, in the NCAA's latest GSR figures (released in Oct. 2010).

• ACADEMIC AND ON-COURT NATIONAL CHAMPION
The website Inside Higher Ed filled out a 2009 NCAA Tournament bracket based on the NCAA's APR ratings, and Carolina was declared champion.

Loudermilk Center for Excellence

In the fall of 2011, Carolina opened the Loudermilk Center for Excellence, a 150,000 square-foot facility that serves all of Carolina's nearly 800 student-athletes across 28 sports.

The Loudermilk Center's largest feature is the John W. Pope Student-Athlete Academic Support Center. This 29,000-square-foot facility provides classrooms for teaching and tutoring, advanced computer technology, a writing lab, reading rooms and office space.

It also is home to the Carolina Leadership Academy, which offers leadership training to Carolina student-athletes, coaches and staff.

THE FIRST STATE UNIVERSITY

- UNC has been ranked among the top five public universities in the nation by U.S. News & World Report in each of the last 11 years.
- NSCA Athletic Recruiting's Collegiate Power Rankings rated UNC among the top six percent of U.S. colleges and universities, citing Carolina's student-athlete graduation rates, academic rankings and athletic success.
- Carolina ranked second among major U.S. universities in the percentage of African-American students in the 2008 freshman class. UNC held the top spot for six of the previous nine years.
- The Kenan-Flagler Business School ranked eighth in Bloomberg BusinessWeek magazine's 2011 list of the best undergraduate business programs.
- The Daily Beast website in 2011 ranked Chapel Hill as the nation's second-smartest college town, behind only Harvard University's Cambridge, Mass.

With an array of restaurants, shops and entertainment spots, Franklin Street is the heart of Chapel Hill, considered one of the country's best college towns.

THE RAMS CLUB — A NEED FOR GROWTH

The cost of competing at the highest level and educating outstanding student-athletes continues to climb. The Rams Club must grow its membership and level of support to keep Carolina as one of the nation's premier athletics programs both athletically and academically.

The Rams Club has witnessed impressive growth over the past several years—51% of members have joined within the last 10 years. Membership in The Rams Club is available through endowment and annual gifts. Gifts of all sizes are important—47% of all Annual Fund gifts are between $100 and $1,000. This growth must continue to meet the escalating needs of Carolina's 28 varsity sports and its student-athletes.

Rams Club members provide a vital component to the success of Tar Heel student-athletes. Donations provide Carolina student-athletes the opportunity to proudly say, "I'm a Tar Heel."

Annual Fund

Donations through the Annual Fund offers The Rams Club the opportunity to meet immediate funding needs-primarily the funds needed to bridge the difference between the endowment's yield and the actual scholarship costs and other important projects for Carolina's student-athletes.

Carolina Forever — Planned Giving

As the Rams Club's planned giving program, Carolina Forever offers donors an opportunity to make a lasting impact by involving Carolina Athletics in their estate planning. Carolina Forever's mission is to ensure that the university continues to provide in perpetuity the unique opportunity to experience what it means to be a Tar Heel student-athlete in a broad-based athletics program.

Scholarship Endowment

The Rams Club's Scholarship Endowment Trust is the largest athletic scholarship endowment in the nation. The Scholarship Endowment Trust is built upon gifts from Carolina supporters who have endowed Full or Half Scholarships in support of student-athletes which provide in perpetuity the support to a broad-based athletics program.

Sports Endowments

The Sport Endowments program provides additional funding for the operating budgets of each of the 28 sports. Donors can make gifts to an individual sport with the yield from that trust made available to the appropriate coach for use in budget-enhancing activities like recruiting, team travel, assistant coaches' salaries and more. With the gifts designated into an endowment, these gifts will provide a continuous stream of usable income in perpetuity.

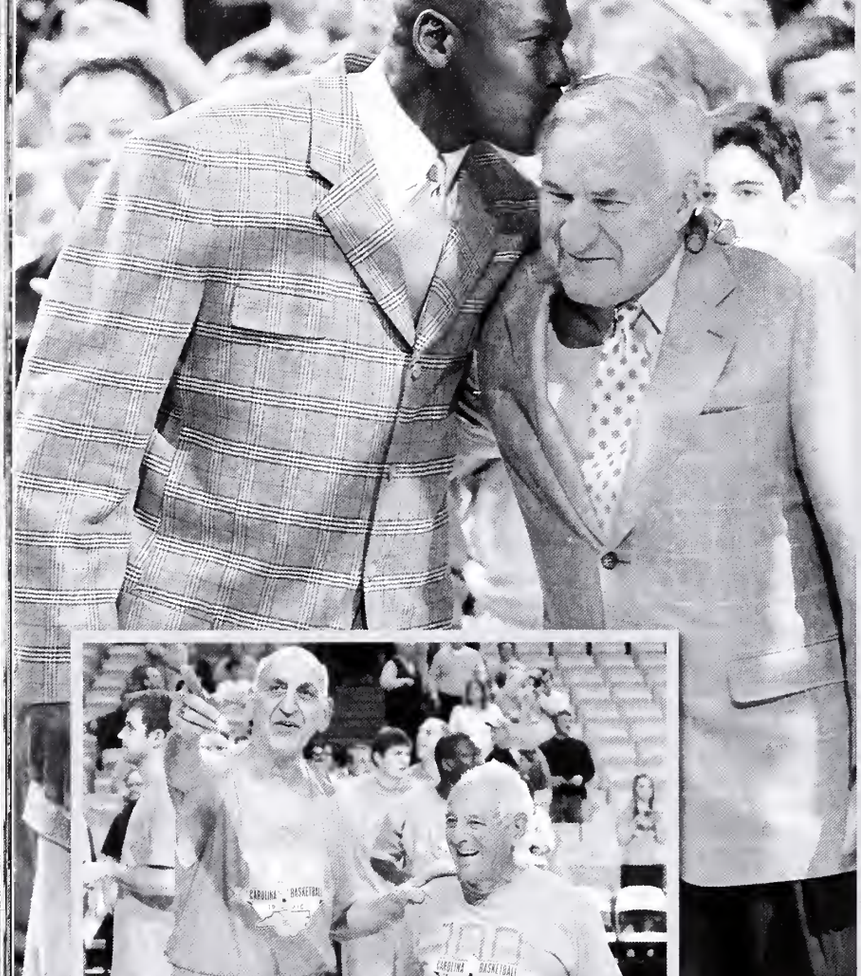
I'M A TAR HEEL.

CAROLINA FAMILY



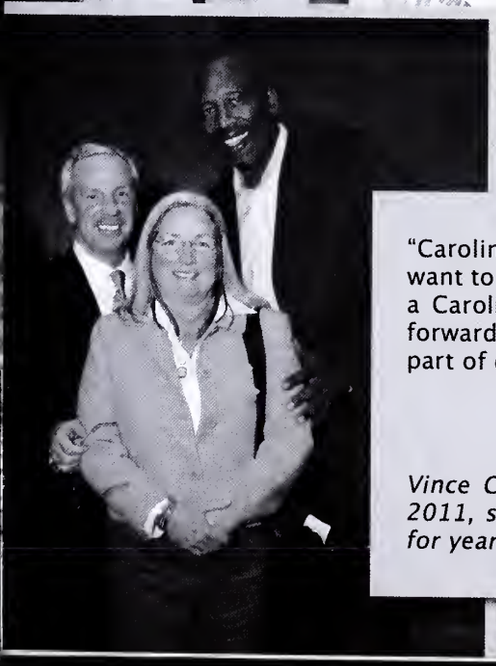
"What's unique is the unity and the bond established in the short time you are at the University. It's a family atmosphere. You find yourself taking care of family members. It's hard for people outside of that to understand, but as long as people within understand it's something we cherish, no matter what happens to us or where we go. You will always cherish that relationship from the University of North Carolina.

-Michael Jordan

ONCE A TAR HEEL, ALWAYS A TAR HEEL

The Carolina basketball family gathered in the summer of 2011 for the wedding of Wes Miller, a letterwinner from 2005-07

Former Tar Heel King Rice is the new head coach at Monmouth University and is joined on his staff by UNC teammates Derrick Phelps and Brian Reese.



"Carolina gets in your blood. You see all the former guys coming back, and you want to be a part of that. It just seems like something you're supposed to do as a Carolina guy, and no matter how long you stay in school, you always look forward to coming back. In the NBA, Carolina guys look after each other. We're part of each others' lives."

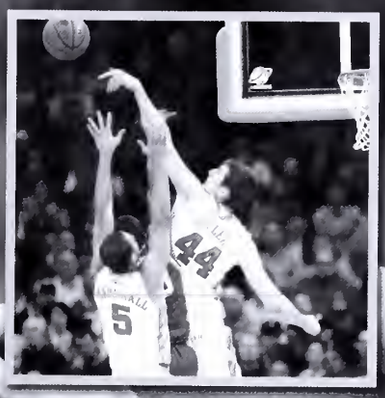
- Vince Carter (UNC '01), eight-time NBA All-Star

Vince Carter donated $2.5 million to the Carolina Basketball Family Fund in 2011, supporting the operating endowment for the men's basketball program for years to come.

PLAY HARD
PLAY SMART
PLAY TOGETHER
THE CAROLINA WAY

PLAY HARD, PLAY SMART, PLAY TOGETHER

"When we were here, we were young and we had no idea what the world was about and how much you learn at Carolina. But it paved the way for me to accomplish what I've accomplished, both as a person and as a basketball player. It's all because of this University and that Carolina brotherhood."
— Antawn Jamison, National Player of the Year and NBA All-Star



WHY CAROLINA?

"Playing basketball for Carolina is like playing baseball for the Yankees or playing in the NBA for the Celtics or the Lakers. It's right there with those programs in terms of their importance and the way that they sustain greatness over a long period of time."

– Mitch Kupchak (UNC '76), L.A. Lakers General Manager

The Nov. 2009 issue of ESPN the Magazine polled 100 Division I men's basketball players. North Carolina was the overwhelming favorite as the "Best Program in the Country," winning 62 percent of the vote. The rest of the top five – Duke (nine percent), Kentucky (seven), Kansas (five) and UCLA (four) – combined for 25 percent of the votes.

"I didn't know it at the time, but when I chose to attend Carolina as a high school kid it was the best decision I've ever made in my life. I loved playing basketball, yes. But it has opened doors for me every day of my life – from the day I graduated until today – that I never could have imagined would be opened."

– Dick Grubar (UNC '69)

– ESPN.com

Sports Illustrated picked the best 25 sports franchises from the 2000s in and chose Carolina as its top men's basketball team. The magazine called UNC "the nation's most dominant program."

"Carolina now sets the standard for every other program in the country."

– Dick Weiss, New York Daily News

UNC ATHLETICS ADMINISTRATION

HOLDEN THORP
CHANCELLOR

At Carolina, Holden Thorp has been an undergraduate student, a chemistry professor, a planetarium director, an inventor and entrepreneur, as well as a dean. He graduated with honors, won teaching awards, chaired a powerhouse chemistry department, developed technology for electronic DNA chips, founded spin-off companies, and succeeded as an administrator. As the 10th chancellor, Thorp draws from those experiences in leading Carolina, one of the world's great research universities.

A North Carolina native, Thorp grew up in Fayetteville in a family steeped in UNC traditions dating to the 1800s. When he graduated from Terry Sanford High School, only one college was on his application list: Carolina, where he earned a bachelor of science degree with honors in 1986.

Attending a world-class research university — where research and teaching are done by the same people — allowed Thorp to work in chemistry labs with top faculty and inspired him to become a professor. He pursued that dream at the California Institute of Technology, where he earned a doctorate in chemistry in 1989, and at Yale University for postgraduate work. After teaching a year at NC State, he returned in 1993 to UNC, where he was dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and chair of the chemistry department before becoming chancellor in 2008.

Because he has lived it from both sides of the class- room, Thorp is passionate about the undergraduate experience. "Carolina is perfectly suited to leverage our students' interests in the great problems facing our world to enhance their academic success," he says.

The University's future depends on aspiring to global academic excellence and serving the needs of North Carolina's students and people. "We're the university of both-and: Both academic prominence and a commitment to our state," Thorp says.

Under Thorp, Carolina seeks to raise $125 million in private gifts to implement "Innovate@Carolina: Important Ideas for a Better World," a roadmap developed by alumni and friends experienced in leading academia.

Thorp is a member of President Obama's National Advisory Council on Innovation and Entrepreneurship. He serves on the U.S. Manufacturing Competitiveness Initiative for the Council on Competitiveness. He has published 130 scholarly articles on the electronic properties of DNA and RNA and invented technology for electronic DNA chips that led to 19 issued or pending U.S. Patents.

An accomplished musician who plays jazz bass and keyboard, Thorp is married to Patti Worden Thorp, a Hope Mills native and UNC Greensboro graduate. Their children are John and Emma.

DICK BADDOUR
ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Goldsboro native and Tar Heel alumnus Dick Baddour is in his 15th and final year as Director of Athletics and his 45th at the University of North Carolina. He directs one of the most successful and respected programs in the country, known for its commitment to academic integrity and competitive excellence in men's and women's sports.

Under his direction, the Tar Heels have won 13 national championships, including seven in women's soccer, three in field hockey, two in men's basketball and one in men's soccer, won three football bowl games and had numerous Top 10 national finishes in Olympic Sports. Nineteen UNC men's and women's teams have combined for 64 ACC championships, more than any other school in that time. UNC has led the league in the number of team championships seven times.

Last year, the Tar Heels finished sixth nationally in the Learfield Directors Cup. The sixth-place finish in the Directors Cup marked the ninth top 10 finish by the Tar Heels in the last 10 years, including top four showings in 2006, 2007 and 2009. By comparison, the other 11 ACC schools have combined for 11 top-10 finishes in the 18-year history of the Directors Cup.

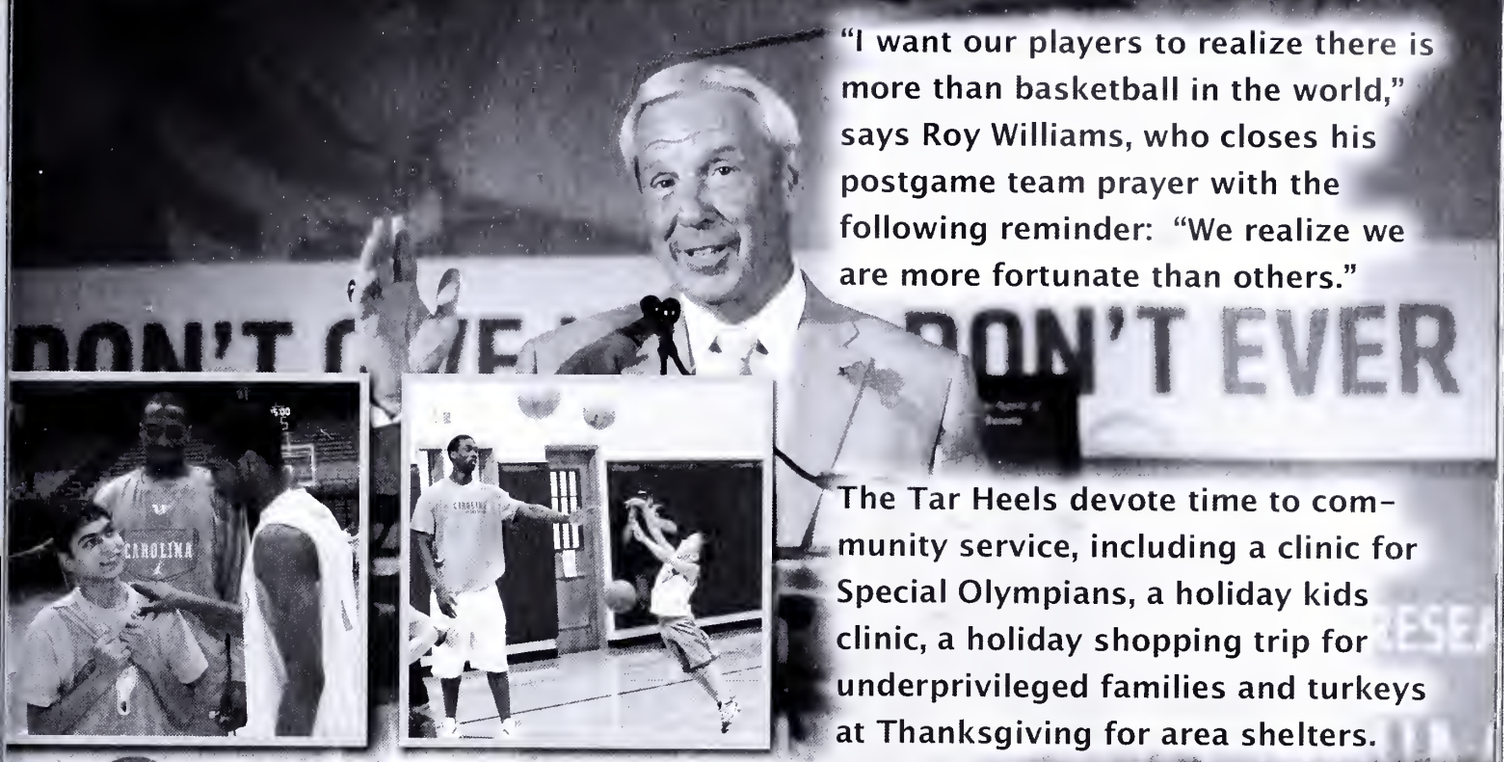
CAROLINA IN THE COMMUNITY



"I want our players to realize there is more than basketball in the world," says Roy Williams, who closes his postgame team prayer with the following reminder: "We realize we are more fortunate than others."

The Tar Heels devote time to community service, including a clinic for Special Olympians, a holiday kids clinic, a holiday shopping trip for underprivileged families and turkeys at Thanksgiving for area shelters.

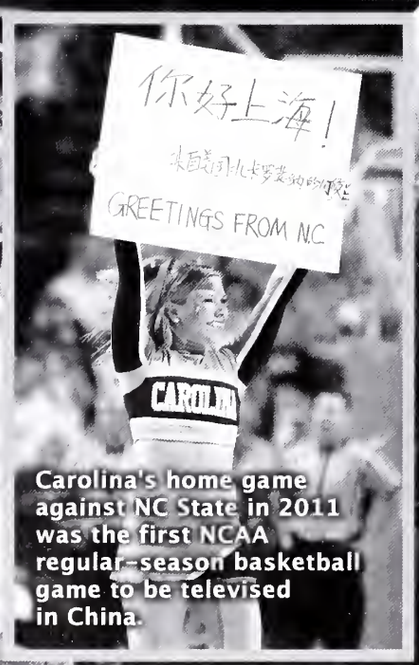
• NBA champion Brendan Haywood established a fund to assist single-parent families.
• Marvin Williams is a two-time winner of the Jason Collier Award for his community service.
• Roy Williams was a guest of honor at the 2011 Dick Vitale Gala to raise funds for The V Foundation for Cancer Research. Williams also hosts an annual breakfast to raise money for UNC's Lineberger Cancer Center, raising over $1.3 million over the years.

NATIONAL EXPOSURE

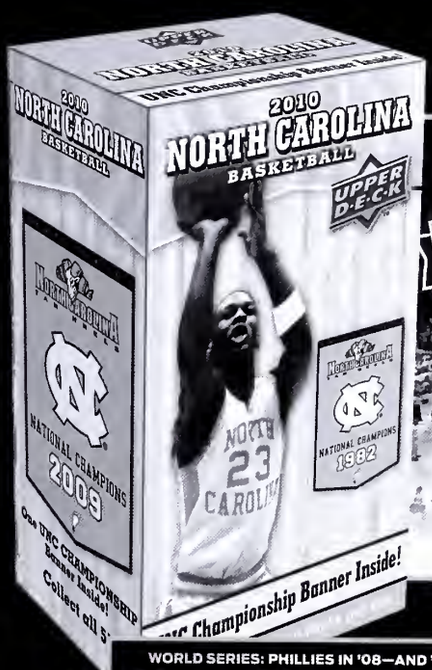
Officially-licensed UNC merchandise is annually among the best-selling in the nation.

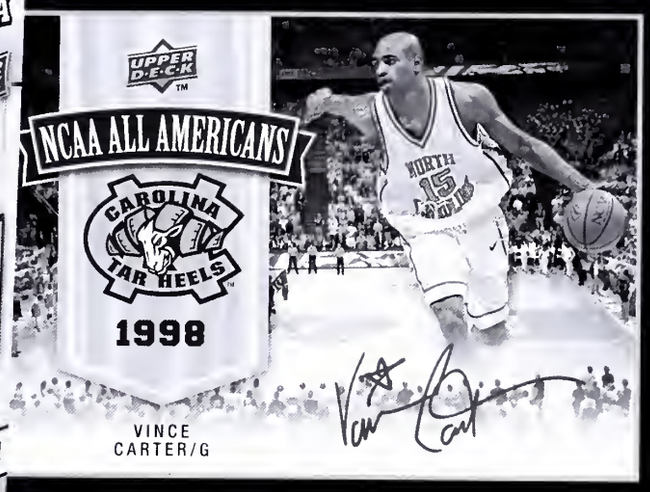
Over 80 percent of Carolina games in the last eight seasons have been nationally televised.



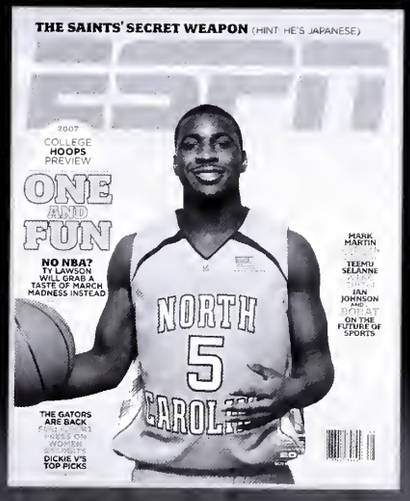
Carolina's home game against NC State in 2011 was the first NCAA regular-season basketball game to be televised in China.

TAR HEELS STAY IN THE SPOTLIGHT





Upper Deck produced a set of Carolina basketball trading cards in 2011, making UNC the first basketball program to receive a school-exclusive set from the company.



No college basketball program receives more of the national spotlight than Carolina.

THE DEAN E. SMITH CENTER

Jeffrey Camarati

The 2011-12 season is the 27th in which the Tar Heels will play in the Dean E. Smith Center. UNC has played 363 games in the Smith Center in front of a combined audience of over seven million fans. Carolina is 307-56 in the Smith Center, an impressive winning mark of 84.6 percent.

The Tar Heels have been in the top five in the national attendance leaders in 24 of the last 25 seasons.

The first game in the Smith Center featured No. 1 Carolina defeating No. 3 Duke, 95-92, in a battle of unbeaten teams on Jan. 18, 1986. The first Tar Heel basket was scored by Carolina center Warren Martin off a pass from Kenny Smith.

The Tar Heels have a 112-15 record (88.2) in the Smith Center in Roy Williams' eight years as head coach. Dean Smith led the Tar Heels to a 133-17 record (88.7) in the building that bears his name.

RECENT RENOVATIONS

The Smith Center has undergone a number of improvements to keep it on the cutting edge of basketball arenas.

The men's basketball offices were completely renovated and expanded prior to the 2010-11 season while the team's varsity hallway also received a facelift.

The arena's lights and sound system were replaced and the training, weight and equipment rooms were expanded and renovated for 2009-10. A hydrotherapy room was added for the 2008-09 season.

In January 2008, the Carolina Basketball Museum opened in the new Williamson Athletics Center, adjacent to the Koury Natatorium. For photos and information about the museum, see CarolinaBasketballMuseum.com.

In 2006-07, the seats in the lower level and upper level ring were replaced. The playing floor was completely refinished and refurbished for the 2007-08 campaign.

Four high-resolution video boards were installed for the 2005-06 season. The boards measure 17.8 feet x 23.6 feet. At the same time, two 50-foot ribbon boards were added to the fascia around the upper level and a 40-foot video board was added to the front of the scorer's table.

In 2000-01, a standing-room-only section reserved for students opened on the baseline closest to the Carolina bench. The Rams Club funded a $150,000 renovation that allowed approximately 400 students to move courtside.

In May 1980, the Department of Athletics, in conjunction with the Educational Foundation, embarked on a mission to raise millions of dollars from private donations to construct an arena. The real inspiration for the fund-raising effort came from the campaign chairman, the late Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles.

Six years, 2,362 donors and over $34 million later, the premiere basketball arena in America became a reality. Dedicated in September 1986 as the Dean Edwards Smith Center, the 300,000-square-foot structure stands on seven and one-half acres of the University's south campus. Over 20,000 cubic yards of rock were removed to make room for the 340-foot-wide, 380-foot-long and 140-foot-high building.

JERSEYS IN THE RAFTERS

"Every time I come in the Smith Center, I sneak a look up there every couple of minutes. I just have to make sure it's still up there, that the big number 33 is still hanging. When I see it up there, it takes me back to coming into Carolina with a bald head and a little mustache. Even at the time, you knew you were going to treasure those memories forever. When I was walking off the court the night of the alumni game (in 2009), I grabbed my son and took a second and pointed out that jersey with 'Jamison' on the banner. There are no words to describe what that felt like. I felt like I was showing him the past and the future all at the same time."

✓ Smith retired with more wins (879) than any other coach in NCAA Division I history, a total since surpassed by Bob Knight.

✓ In 36 years, Smith coached Carolina to 11 Final Fours, two national titles and 13 ACC Tournament Championships.

✓ More than 95 percent of Smith's lettermen graduated.

✓ From 1981 to 1989, Carolina was ranked in the final Top 10 of both the Associated Press and coaches' poll each year.

✓ Smith was named the second-best coach in college basketball history (behind John Wooden) by the NABC in 2000.

✓ Smith was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass., in 1983. He was also inducted into the North Carolina Hall of Fame in 1981. In 2006, he was named to the inaugural class of the National Collegiate Basketball Hall of Fame (along with James Naismith, John Wooden, Oscar Robertson and Bill Russell). He was inducted into the FIBA Hall of Fame in 2007.

✓ Smith was voted ACC Coach of the Year eight times - in 1967, 1968, 1971, 1976, 1977, 1979, 1988 and 1993.

When ESPN's award-winning SportsCentury program selected the greatest coaches of the 20th Century, it came as no surprise that Carolina basketball coach Dean Smith was among the top seven of all-time. Smith joined other legends Red Auerbach, Bear Bryant, George Halas, Vince Lombardi, John McGraw and John Wooden as the preeminent coaches in sports history.

Smith's tenure as Carolina's basketball coach from 1960-97 is a record of remarkable achievement and consistency. In 36 seasons at UNC, Smith's teams had a record of 879-254. His teams won more games than those of any other Division 1 men's basketball college coach in history, a record broken in 2007 by Bob Knight and surpassed again in 2011 by Mike Krzyzewski.

• Smith coached Carolina to the 1982 and 1993 NCAA championships and the 1971 NIT title.

• Under Smith, the Tar Heels won at least 20 games for 27 straight years and 30 of his final 31. No coach in history has ever produced that many consecutive 20-win seasons.

• Carolina was ranked in the final Top 10 of both the Associated Press and coaches' polls each year from 1981-89. That nine-year run is the second-longest streak of Top 10 finishes in history, exceeded only by UCLA's 13-year string from 1967 to 1979.

• The Tar Heels were ranked among the nation's final Top 15 teams in 28 of his last 31 seasons, missing only in 1970, 1990 and 1996, and were among the Top 10 on 23 occasions during that period. Smith's teams finished the season ranked No. 1 in at least one of the two major polls four times (1982, 1984, 1993 and 1994).

• Smith's teams were also the dominant force in the ACC. The Tar Heels under Smith had a record of 364-136 in ACC regular-season play, a winning percentage of .728.

• The Tar Heels finished at least third in the ACC regular-season standings for 33 successive seasons. In that span, Carolina finished first 17 times, second 11 times and third five times.

• Smith's teams finished in the ACC upper division all but one time. That was in 1964, when Carolina was fifth and had its only losing record in ACC regular-season play under Smith at 6-8.

• Carolina won 13 ACC Tournaments under Smith.

• His teams played in 11 Final Fours.

• Smith's teams made 23 consecutive appearances in the NCAA Tournament.

• In his last 31 years, Smith led the Tar Heels into the NCAA Tournament 27 times.

• Carolina reached the Sweet 16 of NCAA play each season from 1981-93. That 13-year streak is the second-longest in Tournament history to a 14-year stretch by UCLA from 1967 to 1980.

The awards and accolades continue to be given to Smith, even after he stepped down as Carolina's head coach on October 9, 1997. Smith was named Sportsman of the Year by Sports Illustrated and received the Arthur Ashe Award for Courage at the ESPY Awards. He was inducted into the FIBA Hall of Fame in 2007.

He received the Naismith Good Sportsmanship Award in 2011. Upon the announcement of that honor, Duke's Mike Krzyzewski said, "Dean set the standard for basketball – and not just college basketball – that everyone is still trying to reach. He demanded that his teams play as one. And what he got in return from all these guys who played for him was the intense loyalty that they feel toward him. And that's something I've admired since I started coaching. It's really one of the great things in all of sport: that intense loyalty the Tar Heel players have for Coach Smith."

In 2006, he was named to the inaugural class of the National Collegiate Basketball Hall of Fame (along with James Naismith, John Wooden, Oscar Robertson and Bill Russell).

Smith also became the first recipient of the Mentor Award for Lifetime Achievement, given by the University of North Carolina Committee on Teaching Awards for "a broader range of teaching beyond the classroom."

He's recognized throughout the sports world for his character, his innovations to the game and his ability to have established Carolina's program as one of the greatest in college basketball. Smith's players consistently produce on the floor, in the classroom and in life.

When Smith broke Rupp's record in 1997, his coaching peers had this to say:

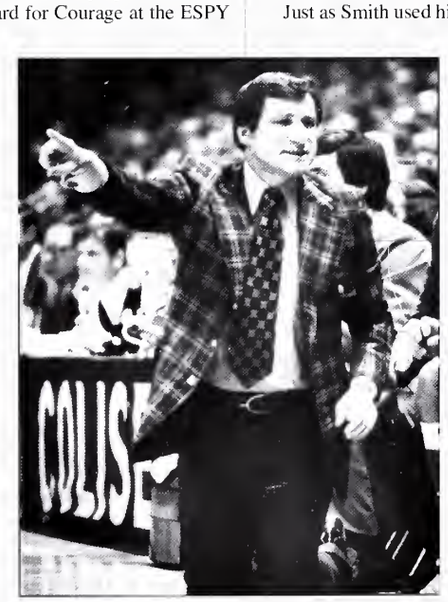
John Wooden: "What's more impressive to me about Dean than the record is how good he is as a teacher of basketball. I've always said he's a better teacher of basketball than anyone else. I couldn't begin to teach players the things Dean has taught them. I've admired him because there's more to him than just wins."

Bob Knight: "Let me say some things that he won't say. He's going to say an awful lot about teams and that's the way it should be. But let me put it in perspective. His being able to do that and do it at a single institution, do it through all the years without ever having a problem with any kind of recruiting violation or probation, is a very singular accomplishment in college basketball. I think it's a great achievement, indicative of a guy who really knows how to coach and has decided from day one that things are going to be done the absolute right way. He's not going to tell you, but just take my word for it. That's a great, great accomplishment for a coach."

Roy Williams: "He has a basketball program, he doesn't have a team. And when you have a program, you're concerned about the kids' entire lives, their entire existence ... and what they're going to do after they leave you and what kind of effect you can have on them as they mature."

Perhaps his greatest form of praise on a worldwide level came when a group of his peers, including Hall of Fame coaches Henry Iba, Pete Newell and Auerbach, chose Smith to coach the U.S. Olympic basketball team in the 1976 Montreal Games. The Americans finished a controversial second to the Soviet Union at Munich in 1972. Smith was given the challenge of trying to develop a team to regain the gold medal against a group of improving international teams.

Smith molded a group of college all-stars into a cohesive unit during a few short weeks in that summer of 1976 and led them to the gold medal, sweeping through the Games undefeated and beating Yugoslavia in the championship game. Emphasizing a tough pressure defense and a fast-breaking, attacking style on offense, the Americans returned to the top of the international game.



Just as Smith used his talents to develop that 1976 all-star team into an Olympic champion, he has prepared a host of players for successful careers in the NBA.

"UNC is a plus-four school," Orlando Magic Vice President of Basketball Operations-Player Personnel John Gabriel said about Smith's teams, "meaning that if I rate a player as the 10th-best player in the NBA Draft, being a Tar Heel automatically jumps him to number six. The plus-four rating is based upon the success of former Tar Heels in the NBA."

During his last 31 seasons, since Smith's Tar Heels won their first ACC title in 1967, the Tar Heels had a record of 813-207, winning 79.7 percent of their games.

In 23 of those 31 seasons, Carolina won either the ACC regular-season tournament or both. Most schools are happy just to win 20 games in a season. At Carolina, it became a habit. No school in the country won more tota games in that 31-year period than Carolina. UCLA was second with 751. The Tar Heels also had the most wins over his last 20 seasons with 539, and over his last 10 years with 268.

For Smith and his players, the word "class" applied to the team's exemplary sportsmanship on the court, to its excellent academic performance and to Smith's belief that basketball involves many complexities that must be learned over the course of time — that coaching and playing the game is a classroom situation in its own right.

Smith's teams have won championships at every level. There were NCAA titles in 1982 and 1993 and the NIT in 1971. His gold medal-winning team at the 1976 Summer Olympic Games makes Smith one of only three men in history to coach teams to an NCAA title, NIT championship and Olympic victory. The others are Pete Newell and Knight.

He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass., in 1983. He was also inducted into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in 1981.

A key to Smith's success was his ability to change Carolina's style to fit his personnel. He favored an offense which used the fast break whenever possible and featured a quick passing attack. But, he was also comfortable in a more disciplined style of play. He liked to play multiple defenses to confuse opponents. However, his preference was a pressure, man-to-man to speed up the action.

Among Smith's many innovations were the Four Corners offense, crediting the passer, the run-and-jump defense, the scramble defense out of man-to-man pressure, the point zone, team huddles at the foul line, double-teaming the screen-and-roll, the freelance passing game and multiple screens against zone defenses.

Born February 28, 1931, in Emporia, Kan., Dean Edwards Smith grew up as the son of public school teachers. He graduated from Topeka High School in 1949 and went to the University of Kansas on an academic scholarship. He played varsity basketball and baseball and freshman football for the Jayhawks. He was a member of Jayhawk basketball teams that won the NCAA title in 1952 and finished second in 1953.

Smith was an assistant coach at Kansas to Phog Allen and Dick Harp, then served in the U.S. Air Force as a lieutenant. While in the service, he played and coached basketball in Germany. Smith served for three years as an assistant basketball coach under Bob Spear, recognized by his peers as one of the outstanding coaches in the history of the game, and one year each as head baseball and head golf coach at the United States Air Force Academy. In 1958, the late Frank McGuire asked him to join his staff at Carolina as an assistant coach. Smith served as an assistant under McGuire for three years before McGuire resigned to become head coach of the NBA's Philadelphia Warriors in the summer of 1961. At that time, Carolina Chancellor William Aycock tapped the 30-year-old Smith to become UNC's head coach.

Smith shared his knowledge of the game with a talented group of assistants. Many of his assistants went on to head coaching jobs, including Larry Brown, Roy Williams, John Lotz, Kenny Rosemond, Eddie Fogler, Randy Wiel and Bill Guthridge.

Smith's talents do not lie solely in tutoring quality college coaches, as is evidenced by the number of outstanding players who have gone on to professional careers after their days in Chapel Hill. In Smith's 36-year tenure, more than 50 of his players went on to play pro basketball in the NBA or ABA and more played in other professional leagues both in the U.S. and overseas.

"Coach taught me the game, when to apply speed, how to use your quickness, when to use that first step, or how to apply certain skills in certain situations," says Jordan. "Dean Smith gave me the knowledge to score 37 points a game and that's something people don't understand."

Smith coached players who went on to become doctors, lawyers and businessmen. Better than 95 percent of his lettermen earned their degrees.

Hall of Famer Michael Jordan: "The camaraderie that he has with his players goes a long way. He's taught a lot of us similar traits and we've accepted that and we've moved on as players and people. That's something we treasure more so than maybe our basketball experience — the things that we learned away from the game.

"He's like a second father to me. When I first left school I was unsure, nervous, scared, going into a situation I wasn't really comfortable with and I didn't know if I was ready for it. He calmed me down with a fatherly attitude, taking me under his wing and teaching me a lot of things about being an adult."

Phil Ford: "My first impression of Coach Smith was honesty. He didn't promise me playing time. In fact, he told me I might have to play on the junior varsity my first year. That kind of set me back. But my mom really liked that because she said, 'Phil, if he's not out here promising you that you will start, that means you go there and work hard and do the best that you can do, then he won't be out promising your job to another high school player.' And if you think about it, that made a lot of sense."

Smith was the winningest coach in the history of the NCAA Tournament with 65 victories (currently second). In 36 ACC Tournaments, he had a coaching record of 58-23, a winning percentage of .716.

Smith, who played for the legendary Phog Allen at Kansas in the early 1950s, and Knight are the only two men to both play on and coach an NCAA championship team. Smith was a member of the Jayhawk squad that won college basketball's top prize in 1952. He then coached the Tar Heels to national titles in 1982 and 1993.

After taking Carolina to the NCAA championship game in 1977, Smith was named National Coach of the Year by the NABC. He received similar honors from the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and Basketball Weekly in 1979 and from Medalist in 1982. He was named the Naismith National Coach of the Year in 1993 after leading the Tar Heels to the national crown.

In 1993, the Atlantic Coast Sportswriters Association named Smith the ACC Coach of the Year, an honor he received on seven previous occasions as well—1967, 1968, 1971, 1976, 1977, 1979 and 1988.

Carolina won the 1982 ACC title over Ralph Sampson and Virginia.

Frank McGuire's eventual national champions ran the table in the regular season, winning all 14 games. That year marked the first time UNC reached the conference tournament final since the 1947 Southern Conference Tournament. The Tar Heels held off Wake Forest, 61-59, in the semifinal and defeated South Carolina by 20 to earn their first ACC championship. In the semifinal, Wake Forest took a one-point lead with less than a minute to play, but National Player of the Year Lennie Rosenbluth hit a hook shot from the circle and a free throw for a three-point play and the win.

Rosenbluth made 8 of 11 shots from the floor in the championship, scored 38 points and was named MVP.

The Tournament moved to the Greensboro Coliseum for the first time and was the site of Dean Smith's first title. Fittingly, Carolina won the title by sweeping its in-state rivals, beating NC State by three points, Wake Forest by 10 and Duke by nine in the title match. Larry Miller was selected MVP after scoring 25.7 points and grabbing 8.3 rebounds per game. Bob Lewis (18.0 points, 5.0 rebounds) joined Miller on the first-team all-tournament squad.

1968

The Tournament moved again in 1968 for the first year of a three-year stay in Charlotte. UNC's semifinal game against South Carolina was a fierce battle. The Gamecocks sent the game into overtime with an 18-4 run to tie the score at 74. The Tar Heels came from behind in overtime and won on baskets by Grubar and Gerald Tuttle.

In the championship, Carolina led NC State by only five at the half, but the final tally was a lopsided 87-50 victory. Miller (25.3 points, 8.7 rebounds) became the second player ever (Len Chappell of Wake Forest) to repeat as MVP. Grubar (13.3 points, 4.7 rebounds) was also a first-team selection.

The 37-point margin of victory is the largest in championship game history.

1969

Carolina entered as the No. 1 seed for the third year in a row. Carolina's Charles Scott battled Wake's Charlie Davis in the semifinals. Davis won the first half, as the Deacons led 37-29 at intermission. Scott took over in the second stanza, enabling UNC to win, 80-72. Scott and Grubar led the Tar Heels with 23 points apiece.

Carolina and Duke squared off in the championship game. The Blue Devils led by nine at halftime and the Tar Heels lost Grubar to a first-half knee injury. The second half featured one of the most memorable performances in ACC history as Scott scored 25 of his game-high 40 points on 12 of 13 shooting. Carolina won its third straight ACC title, 85-74, and Scott earned MVP honors.

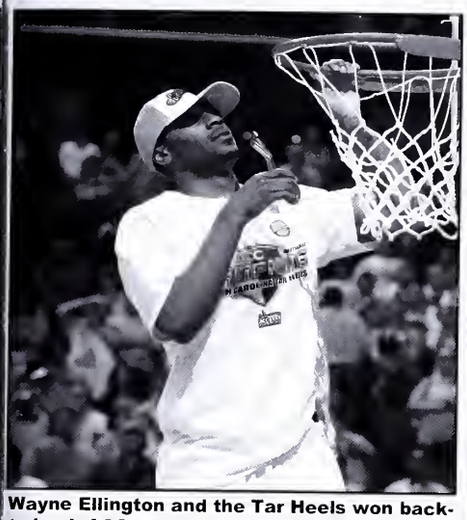
CAROLINA IN THE ACC TOURNAMENT



Wayne Ellington and the Tar Heels won back-to-back ACC championships in 2007 and 2008.

South Carolina's departure from the ACC left only seven teams, and Carolina received a bye into the semifinal against Duke. Four Tar Heels scored in double figures, led by Bobby Jones, who carded a double-double (14 points, 11 rebounds) as the Tar Heels won, 63-48.

Carolina was in the championship game for the fifth time in six years. Maryland was in the finals for the first time since 1958. Robert McAdoo (15 points, 7.5 rebounds per game) became the fifth Tar Heel in six years to earn the MVP award as Carolina held on for a 73-64 win. Dennis Wuycik (17.5 points, 5 rebounds) and George Karl (13 points, 2.5 rebounds) joined McAdoo on the all-tournament first team.

The Tar Heels trailed Wake Forest in the quarterfinal by eight points with 50 seconds left. Freshman point guard Phil Ford (44 seconds to play), Mitch Kupchak (36 seconds), Walter Davis (30 seconds) and Brad Hoffman (two seconds) hit jump shots and the Deacs missed a pair of free throws to force overtime. In the extra session with the game tied at 96 Carolina took possession with 58 seconds to play. UNC went Four Corners and drew a technical against Wake Forest with 29 seconds to play for not forcing UNC to take action. Ford hit the free throw and another free throw six seconds later as Carolina triumphed, 101-100. Davis (31 points, 12 rebounds), Kupchak (16 points, 14 rebounds) and Ford (25 points) led the Tar Heels.

Clemson came back from 11 down at the half to force overtime in the semifinals. A tip-in by Kupchak gave Carolina an overtime lead it would not relinquish. Ford led UNC with 29, making 15 of 18 from the free throw line.

Ford was outstanding in the championship game against defending NCAA champion NC State. Carolina took the lead, 56-55, on a jumper by Davis with nine minutes left and then went into its delay offense. Ford hit two baskets in the next two and one-half minutes, and NC State did not score during a 5:18 stretch, leading to a 70-66 Tar Heel victory. Ford (26 points per game) was the MVP and was joined on the first-team by Kupchak (13.7 points, 13.7 rebounds). Davis netted 19 points and grabbed 7.7 rebounds over the three games.

1977

No. 1 seed Carolina met No. 7 Virginia in the finals in a rematch of the 1976 final won by the Cavaliers. Ford scored 19 points in the first half, but the Cavaliers led by one at the break. Virginia led 64-56 with 7:08 remaining, but over the next 5:03 the Tar Heels outscored the Wahoos, 15-1. Freshman Mike O'Koren and John Kuester led the final charge after Ford fouled out with 5:45 to play and Virginia still holding a 64-61 advantage. A layup by Bruce Buckley with 3:37 to play broke a 67-all tie and gave UNC the lead for good. Kuester's take-charge attitude and perfect free throw shooting earned him MVP honors after the Tar Heel title.

Duke defeated UNC in the final game of the regular season to share the regular-season title, but the Tar Heels won the draw for the tournament's top seed and first-round bye. Carolina defeated Maryland, 102-79, in the semifinals, as five Tar Heels scored in double figures. Al Wood led with 19 points on 8 of 10 shooting.

Carolina beat Duke in the finals, 71-63. Dudley Bradley scored 16 points with seven steals and four assists and earned MVP honors. O'Koren had 18 points and eight rebounds and was 10 for 11 from the free throw line. The Tar Heels turned the ball over just seven times and forced 14 Duke miscues. O'Koren and Dave Colescott, who averaged 15 and 12.5 points per game in the tournament, respectively, also were first-team selections.

UNC beat Wake Forest, 58-57, in one semifinal as Mike Pepper nailed a 16-foot jumper with eight seconds to play. Sam Perkins scored 18 points and pulled down 15 rebounds and James Worthy added 12 points and 11 rebounds. The Deacons led 53-46 but Pepper and Perkins each hit two baskets. The second basket by Perkins gave UNC a 56-55 lead with 4:12 to play. Alvis Rogers hit an 11-foot jumper to give Wake the lead back with 1:30 to play, but Pepper hit the game-winner with eight seconds to go.

Carolina and Maryland met in the final in the Capital Centre in Landover, Md. The game was tied seven times in the second half, but the Tar Heels went ahead for good with 2:53 to play on a Jimmy Black steal and lay-up. Wood scored twice in the final two minutes to secure a 61-60 triumph.

Perkins (17.7 points, 8.3 rebounds) became just the second freshman ever, and first since Ford, to be named MVP. Worthy (13 points, 7.7 rebounds) joined Perkins as a first-team all-tournament selection.

1982

No. 1-ranked Carolina led No. 2 Virginia, 34-31, at halftime behind Worthy's 16 points. Michael Jordan scored four of the Tar Heels' first five field goals in the second half. His fourth straight field goal, with 8:44 to play, was Carolina's last of the game. Leading 44-43 with 7:34 remaining, Carolina spread the floor and held the ball. Virginia fouled six times over the next 7:06, finally putting Matt Doherty on the foul line for 1-and-1 with 28 seconds left. Doherty hit the first for a two-point edge. Virginia turned the ball over with three seconds to play. Doherty hit two free throws and Ralph Sampson had an uncontested dunk with one second left as Carolina prevailed, 47-45. The field goal by Sampson was the first by the Cavaliers since the 7:34 mark.

1989

Carolina breezed to the championship game, recording a 15-point win over Georgia Tech and a 30-point rout of eighth-seeded Maryland, which had knocked off No. 1 seed NC State.

The 1989 ACC championship game was one of the most memorable and intense meetings ever between Carolina and Duke. Both teams had won regular-season games on the other's home floor.

Stifling defense by both teams led to 44 turnovers, 26 of which the Tar Heels committed. J.R. Reid had 14 points and nine rebounds and Steve Bucknall had 10 points and five assists to lead UNC. The game was tied five times in the second half and Duke led just once, with 5:28 to play. Bucknall hit a driving basket and free throw with 1:46 remaining to break a 66-all tie. Bucknall and King Rice both went 4 for 4 from the line to clinch the win.

Reid (16.0 points, 8.0 rebounds per game) won MVP honors. Senior point guard Jeff Lebo (10.7 points, 3.0 assists) joined him on the first-team.

After hard-fought victories over Clemson and Virginia, the Tar Heels met a Duke team in the championship game that had swept the regular-season series from UNC. Carolina raced out to a 15-4 lead and thrashed Duke, 96-74. Fox made 10 of 16 field goal attempts for 25 points and Hubert Davis netted 17. Rice had 12 points and seven assists and did not commit a turnover. Fox averaged 17.3 points and 9 rebounds over the three games and was named MVP. Davis averaged 13.7 points and hit nearly 64 percent from three-point range in the Tournament.

The win was the largest in the finals since Carolina beat NC State, 87-50, in 1968.

Carolina faced Wake Forest in the semifinal in what proved to be one of the most exciting games in ACC Tournament history. Wake Forest led, 76-70, with 2:15 to play, but Derrick Phelps helped cut the deficit to three with 11 seconds left. Phelps then made the first of two free throws and rebounded his own miss on the second. He fed Dante Calabria who drove the lane and hit a twisting bank shot with three seconds remaining for a tie at 81.

Carolina led 84-81 in overtime, but a three-pointer by Rusty LaRue tied the game with 39 seconds left. UNC freshman Jerry Stackhouse, the Tournament's MVP, hit the game-winner on a baseline drive with five seconds to play. Wake Forest guard Randolph Childress, who scored 31 points, just missed a long three-pointer as the clock expired.

Stackhouse had 14 points and seven rebounds and Eric Montross added 12 points and nine rebounds to lead Carolina past Virginia, 73-66, in the title game.

The Tar Heels lost their first three ACC regular-season games, but rallied to go 8-0 in the second half to finish tied for second place. Carolina then swept past Virginia, Wake Forest and NC State to claim its 14th Tournament title. Junior guard Shammond Williams earned MVP honors, averaging 20.0 points and 5.0 assists.

Antawn Jamison scored 24 points and grabbed 10 rebounds and point guard Ed Cota had 11 points and 10 assists in the 78-68 quarterfinal win over Virginia. Williams made eight of 11 shots, including four of seven three-pointers, in an 86-73 triumph over the Tim Duncan-led Demon Deacons in the semifinals.

In the championship game, Williams again led Carolina with 23 points, nine of which came on a trio of three-point baskets in a 2:02 span midway through the second half. Jamison added 17 points and a game-high 11 rebounds. Carolina shot 59.0 percent from the floor.

Carolina repeated as Tournament champions for the first time since 1981-82 with victories over NC State, Maryland and Duke. Those wins avenged regular-season losses against the same three opponents. Jamison injured a muscle in the overtime win over the Terrapins in the semifinal, and was questionable for Sunday's championship game. However, Jamison was relentless against the Blue Devils, sparking UNC to a 15-point win over the nation's top-ranked team with a 22-point, 18-rebound effort that ranks as one of the finest in championship game history.

Jamison had 25 points in the opening round win over the Wolfpack. The Tar Heels trailed throughout much of the second half against Maryland, but rallied behind Shammond Williams to force overtime. Williams added 10 points in the extra stanza to lead Carolina to an 83-73 triumph.

Carolina's win over Duke in the championship game was UNC's sixth in title game matchups against the Blue Devils. The game was tied at 57 with less than 11 minutes to play, but the Tar Heels reeled off the next 13 points. Carolina finished the game shooting 54.4 percent from the floor, while Duke hit on just 32.8 percent of its field goal attempts. Williams and Vince Carter had 19 and 16 points, respectively.

Carolina won its 16th ACC Tournament in 2007 in Tampa, Fla., with wins over Florida State, Boston College and NC State. Prior to 2007, the last time UNC had won both a share of the ACC regular season title and the ACC Tournament in the same season was 1982.

As the Tournament's top seed, Carolina beat No. 9 seed Florida State in the quarterfinals. Wayne Ellington scored 18 points to lead four double-figure scorers in the win over the Seminoles. Brandan Wright scored 20 points to lead the top-seeded Tar Heels to a 71-56 win over No. 4 seed Boston College in the semifinals.

All five Tar Heel starters scored in double figures as Carolina beat NC State, 89-80, in the final. Reyshawn Terry scored eight consecutive points in a late-game stretch to capture the win.

Wright was named MVP, becoming the fifth freshman and fourth Tar Heel freshman to do so. Wright joined UNC's Phil Ford (1978), Sam Perkins (1981) and Jerry Stackhouse (1994) and Duke's Jason Williams (2000) as those to accomplish the feat. Wright, Ellington and Ty Lawson made the All-ACC Tournament team, the first time three freshmen from the same team ever earned that honor.

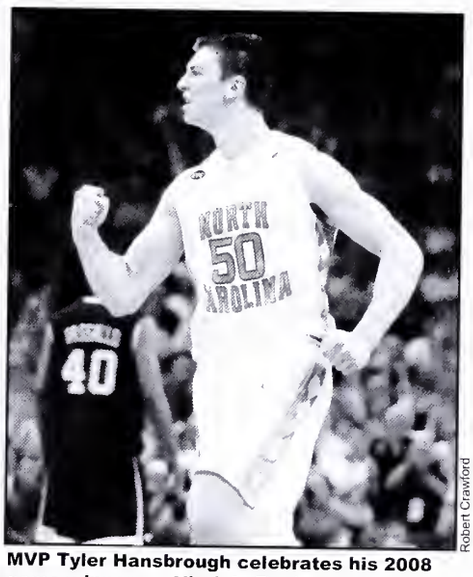
Carolina beat Florida State, Virginia Tech and Clemson to win the 2008 ACC title, its second in a row and an ACC-record 17th overall. The Tar Heels have won back-to-back ACC Tournament titles five times — 1967-68, 1968-69, 1981-82, 1997-98 and 2007-08.

Tyler Hansbrough, Wayne Ellington and Marcus Ginyard were named to the ACC All-Tournament First Team.



Robert Crawford

MVP Tyler Hansbrough celebrates his 2008 game-winner vs. Virginia Tech.

Virginia Tech led most of the game in the semifinals. Ellington hit a pair of three-pointers late to tie the game before Hansbrough hit a baseline jump shot with 0.8 seconds left for a 68-66 win. Ellington made 10 of 13 shots from the floor and had 24 points in the championship game win over Clemson.

Hansbrough had 26 points and nine rebounds against the Hokies and 18 points and 11 rebounds in the finals to earn MVP honors.

1957 Season

The Tar Heels had to pull out numerous close games to preserve their perfect 32-0 record and NCAA title. Win No. 17 was a 65-61 triumph over Maryland in double overtime. Tommy Kearns' free throws provided the winning margin in the 18th consecutive win, 75-73, over Duke. The Tar Heels beat Wake Forest for the fourth time in that one year in the ACC Tournament semifinals. Carolina trailed with less than a minute left, but squeaked out a 61-59 win.

Those close games were nothing compared to the drama that unfolded in the Final Four in Kansas City. The Tar Heels won back-to-back triple overtime games against Michigan State and Kansas to capture UNC's first NCAA championship. Pete Brennan's jumper against Michigan State was a key play that extended the game into the second overtime. Joe Quigg's two free throws with six seconds remaining in the third overtime gave Carolina a 54-53 win over Kansas and Wilt Chamberlain in the final. In 1999, Sports Illustrated selected the 1957 NCAA title game as its second-favorite game of all-time.

UNC 87, Davidson 85
March 15, 1969

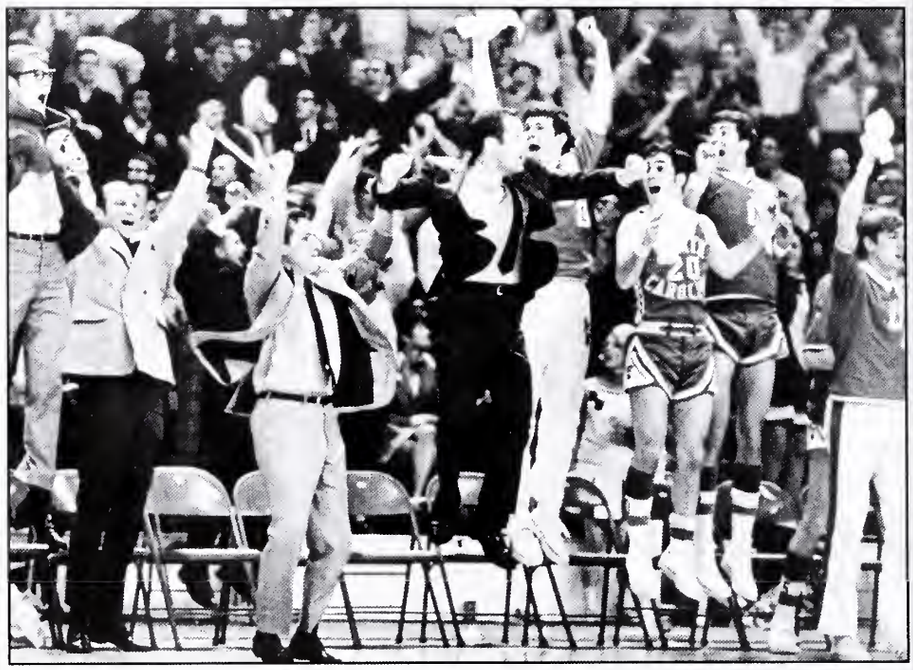
Charles Scott almost single-handedly carried the Tar Heels to victory in the NCAA East Regional final in College Park, Md. Scott connected on 10 of 14 field goal attempts in the second half. Davidson had the ball with 1:05 remaining and the score tied, 85-85, but Gerald Tuttle drew a charge for the Tar Heels. Scott hit a 20-footer with three seconds left and Carolina advanced to its third consecutive Final Four.

UNC 73, Duke 71
January 19, 1974

The Tar Heels defeated the Blue Devils on a last-second shot at Cameron Indoor Stadium. The Tar Heels rallied to tie the score and Duke had the ball at half-court with four seconds left. Bobby Jones stole the inbounds pass and hit an off-balance lay-up with one second left to give Carolina a 73-71 win.

UNC 96, Duke 92 (OT)
March 2, 1974

In one of the most famous comebacks in college basketball, the Tar Heels rallied from eight points down with 17 seconds remaining against Duke to force overtime. Trailing 86-78, Bobby Jones made both ends of a one-and-one with just 17 seconds left. John Kuester cut the deficit to four with 13 seconds to play with a lay-up after Duke threw away the inbounds pass. The Blue Devils again lost the inbounds pass and Jones cut the deficit to two on a put-back off an Ed Stahl miss. Six seconds remained. The Tar Heels fouled Pete Kramer with four seconds left, and he missed the front end of the one-and-one. Stahl grabbed the rebound and called a timeout with three ticks left. Mitch Kupchak in-bounded the ball to Walter Davis, who launched a 25-foot shot as time expired. The shot banked off the glass to tie the score at 86-86. Carmichael Auditorium erupted and Carolina went on to win 96-92 in overtime.



The UNC bench jumps for joy as Charles Scott hits the game-winner as time expires, giving the Tar Heels an 87-85 win over Davidson in the 1969 NCAA East Regional Final.

UNC 101, Wake Forest 100 (OT)
March 6, 1975

Carolina trailed Wake Forest, 90-82, with 50 seconds remaining in the ACC quarterfinals. Phil Ford hit a 20-footer with 43 ticks left and Mitch Kupchak followed a Deacon turnover with a driving layup with 34 seconds to play. Wake Forest's inbounds pass grazed the scoreboard, turning the ball back to Carolina. Walter Davis scored to make it 90-88 with 29 seconds left. The Deacons failed to convert two one-and-one opportunities before Brad Hoffman drove the baseline and nailed a 12-footer to tie the game with two seconds left. The Tar Heels pulled out the 101-100 win in overtime and went on to capture the ACC title two days later.

UNC 70, NC State 69
January 17, 1979

Carolina charged out to a 40-19 halftime lead and led by 17 with 10:30 to play, but the Wolfpack got hot. Kenny Matthews hit a jumper with 32 seconds left that gave State a 69-68 lead. Dudley Bradley missed a jumper for the Tar Heels and State grabbed the rebound with 16 seconds left. Reynolds Coliseum celebrated. But Bradley stole the ball from Clyde Austin at mid-court and drove in for the game-winning dunk and a 70-69 triumph.

UNC 63, Georgetown 62
March 29, 1982

Michael Jordan hit a jumper from the left wing with 17 seconds to play to give Dean Smith his first national championship. Final Four MVP James Worthy had 28 points, but it was the freshman Jordan who took a pass from Jimmy Black and made the game-winning shot. Worthy stole an errant pass from Hoya forward Fred Brown in the final seconds to clinch the title.

UNC 70, Tulane 68 (3 OT)
November 30, 1982

John Williams made two free throws with eight seconds to play to give Tulane a 53-51 edge. Michael Jordan was whistled for an offensive foul with four seconds remaining, and it appeared the Tar Heels would start a season with three successive losses for the first time since 1928-29. However, Jordan stole the inbounds pass and hit a 24-foot prayer at the buzzer to tie the game. Carolina prevailed, 70-68, in triple overtime.

UNC 64, Virginia 63
February 10, 1983

Carolina trailed second-ranked Virginia by 16 points in the second half and was down 63-53 with 4:12 remaining. Jimmy Braddock hit a three-pointer and Matt Doherty and Sam Perkins each converted one-and-ones to close the gap to 63-60 with 2:54 remaining. Virginia held the ball and Perkins was forced to foul Ralph Sampson with 1:20 left. The All-America center missed the front end of his one-and-one. Braddock missed a three-pointer, but Michael Jordan was there to put in the rebound. As Rick Carlisle dribbled up-court, Jordan stole the ball and slammed it home for a 64-63 Tar Heel lead. Carlisle missed a last-second shot and Jordan grabbed the rebound in front of a delirious Carmichael crowd.

Walter Davis (No. 24) capped a furious, eight-point comeback in the final 17 seconds of regulation with this 25-foot shot at the buzzer on March 2, 1974. Carolina went on to defeat Duke, 96-92, in overtime.

UNC 75, Maryland 74
January 9, 1985

Lefty Driesell's Maryland Terrapins seemed poised to knock off Carolina at Carmichael Auditorium. The Terps led 72-69 with 23 seconds left and Keith Gatlin on the line for a one-and-one. The 83 percent foul shooter missed the front end and UNC's Kenny Smith sank a jump shot with 16 seconds left. Adrian Branch, a 78 percent free-throw shooter, also missed. Dave Popson provided the winning points with a high-arcing jumper with nine seconds to play. Curtis Hunter's steal and free throws secured the win.

UNC 60, Notre Dame 58
March 16, 1985

In the second round of the NCAA Tournament, the higher-seeded Tar Heels had to play at Notre Dame. Tied at 58 with 1:38 left, the Irish held for the last shot. Irish point guard David Rivers lost control of the ball, enabling Curtis Hunter to scoop it up and make a lead pass to Kenny Smith. Smith slammed it home, then stole the inbounds pass to seal the win.

UNC 96, Syracuse 93 (OT)
November 21, 1987

Undermanned Carolina faced top-ranked Syracuse in the Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic and the Orange led by 14 with 15:39 to play. Carolina stormed back and sent the game into overtime when freshman Pete Chilcutt hit a turnaround jumper at the horn to tie the game at 85.

UNC 80, James Madison 79
November 24, 1989

The Tar Heels trailed Lefty Driesell's Dukes, 79-70, with less than a minute to play in the Maui Classic. An offensive rebound basket by Rick Fox and a steal and three-pointer by Hubert Davis cut the deficit to four with 48 seconds to play. Pete Chilcutt hit a three to pull within one with 10 ticks remaining. The Tar Heels had one last chance after a JMU player stepped out of bounds and King Rice tossed an off-balance runner from the top of the key that banked in at the buzzer.

UNC 79, Oklahoma 77
March 17, 1990

The Tar Heels trailed No. 1 ranked Oklahoma, 74-73, with 55 seconds to play when Rick Fox nailed a three-pointer from 25 feet away. The Sooners answered with a conventional three-point play and led, 77-76, but King Rice was fouled with 10 seconds left. Rice hit the first shot, but missed the second. The rebound went out-of-bounds to Carolina with eight seconds to play. Fox hit a driving bank shot off the glass as time expired that gave the Tar Heels a 79-77 win and a 10th consecutive trip to the Sweet 16.

UNC 80, Wake Forest 78
February 8, 1992

Just three days after knocking off No. 1 Duke, Carolina rallied from 22 points behind to defeat Wake Forest, 80-78, on Brian Reese's jumper at the buzzer. The comeback was the largest in Tar Heel history. UNC trailed by 20 with 14:49 to play and by 11 with 6:17 to go before a 10-0 run cut the Deacs lead to 75-74. Pat Sullivan tied the game at 78 with a pair of free throws with 38 seconds left. Reese set up the final possession with a steal with 16 seconds to go. He drove the lane and missed, but grabbed his own rebound and launched a 12-footer at the buzzer for the win.

UNC 82, Florida State 77
January 27, 1993

The Seminoles jumped out to a 45-28 advantage at the half and later extended the lead to as many as 21 points. Carolina trailed 73-54 with less than nine minutes to play. The Tar Heels, keyed by a pair of three-pointers by Henrik Rodl, then ran off 15 straight points and Eric Montross hit a jump hook with 1:59 left to cut the FSU lead to 77-76. George Lynch stole a crosscourt pass by Charlie Ward and slammed the ball home to give Carolina a 78-77 lead. Clutch foul shooting by Donald Williams sealed the 82-77 victory. The Tar Heels outscored the Seminoles 28-4 over the last nine minutes.

1993 NCAA Tournament

In the run to the national championship, the Tar Heels had to overcome double-digit deficits on three different occasions. Carolina trailed Arkansas, 25-14, more than 10 minutes into the first half of the East Regional semifinal. Sparked by George Lynch and Donald Williams, the Tar Heels went on a 14-3 run to tie the game at 28. Carolina fell behind 38-31 before knotting the score at 45 at halftime and eventually prevailing 80-74.

The Tar Heels trailed Cincinnati 29-14 in the regional final with less than seven minutes remaining in the first half. The Bearcats' Nick Van Exel hit his sixth three-pointer of the half with 4:50 remaining to chalk up his 21st point and a 33-20 lead. Led by Derrick Phelps' defense, Carolina cut the deficit to one by halftime, held Van Exel to only two points in the final 20 minutes and pulled out a 75-68 overtime win.

The Tar Heels fell behind Michigan, 23-13, in the national championship game. Carolina went on a 12-2 run to tie the game, capped off by a three-pointer by Donald Williams. Carolina took a 42-36 halftime lead and went on to win the title, 77-71. Williams finished with 25 points and hit four free throws in the final minutes to secure the win.

UNC 86, Wake Forest 84 (OT)
March 12, 1994

The Tar Heels erased a five-point deficit in the final 1:15 of regulation to down the Demon Deacons, 86-84, in overtime in the ACC semifinals. Leading 81-78, Wake Forest chose to foul Derrick Phelps with 11.8 seconds left. Phelps made the first free throw and missed the second, but grabbed the rebound. He found Dante Calabria, whose baseline drive and basket with 3.8 ticks left tied the score at 81. Freshman Jerry Stackhouse took a pass from Phelps and hit a driving shot to win the game, 86-84. Carolina went on to win its 13th ACC title the next day with a 73-66 victory over Virginia.

UNC 62, Wake Forest 61
January 28, 1995

Winston-Salem was the stage for a battle between sophomore centers Rasheed Wallace and Tim Duncan. Duncan had 18 points, 17 rebounds and seven blocks, and Wallace countered with 17 points, 10 rebounds and three blocks. Carolina trailed Wake Forest 53-43 with 6:39 left. Strong inside play from Wallace and the three-point shooting of Jeff McInnis and Donald Williams brought UNC to within one at 61-60. Williams then hit a running one-hander from the right side of the lane with 5.5 seconds remaining for a 62-61 win.

UNC 102, Duke 100 (2 OT)
February 2, 1995

The Tar Heels jumped out to a 26-9 lead on a spectacular reverse dunk by Jerry Stackhouse over two Blue Devils. Duke pulled within five at halftime and led by as many as 12 in the second half. UNC battled back from a nine-point deficit with 6:18 remaining to force overtime. The Tar Heels led by nine, but Duke made three three-pointers, including a 30-footer from Jeff Capel at the buzzer, to knot the score at 95 and force a second overtime. Donald Williams hit a pair of 12-footers in the second OT and Jeff McInnis had a steal and lay-up with under a minute to play to give Carolina a 102-100 win. Stackhouse and Rasheed Wallace each had 25 points and Williams added 24 in one of the greatest college basketball games ever played.

UNC 73, Duke 72
January 31, 1996

The Blue Devils' lead was three when Ademola Okulaja grabbed an offensive rebound and scored to make it 69-68 with 1:55 to go. Steve Wojciechowski hit a three-pointer for a 72-68 Duke lead with 1:13 to play, but Shammond Williams countered with a three of his own 15 seconds later. Duke turned the ball over and the Tar Heels nearly returned the favor, but Williams forced a jump ball after a scramble. Possession favored UNC and Jeff McInnis drove into the lane and fed Serge Zwikker, whose shot was blocked by Greg Newton. Dante Calabria tipped the loose ball in for a 73-72 lead. Duke had one final chance to win, but Ricky Price's baseline jumper at the buzzer hit the front of the rim.

UNC 59, NC State 56
January 15, 1997

The Tar Heels began ACC play with three straight losses for the first time in history. Carolina led 36-28 at halftime, but did not score a field goal in the second half until the 8:09 mark and had just two baskets in the first 18 minutes of the second stanza. The Wolfpack led 56-47 with 2:00 to play, but the Tar Heels went on a 12-0 run to finish the game. Antawn Jamison began the rally by forcing a steal and Shammond Williams hit a lay-up to pull within seven. Williams hit a three-pointer and Jamison added a lay-up to pull within two points with 50 seconds to play. Trailing by one with 28 seconds left, Carolina fouled and State missed the front end of a one-and-one. The Tar Heels went ahead for good with 12 seconds to play as Ademola Okulaja fed Jamison on the low block for a lay-up. Vince Carter stole the inbounds pass after the go-ahead score to secure the win.

UNC 45, NC State 44
February 12, 1997

This was the lowest scoring output in a win during Dean Smith's 36 years as head coach. The Tar Heels trailed 28-19 at the half, but pulled within 42-41 with 7:25 to play. Neither team scored until a Damon Thornton basket with 2:03 left gave State a 44-41 advantage. Serge Zwikker scored for UNC to make it 44-43. With 12.3 seconds to play, Antawn Jamison forced a turnover and freshman point guard Ed Cota drove to the left baseline and lofted a floater which found the net with 4.5 seconds remaining. Vince Carter blocked State's last shot at the buzzer to clinch the victory.

UNC 107, Ga. Tech 100 (2 OT)
February 8, 1998

The Tar Heels let a seven-point lead slip away in the final minute of regulation, but Shammond Williams put on an awesome three-point shooting display as Carolina prevailed, 107-100, in double-overtime in Atlanta. Williams forced a second overtime with a pair of free throws with six seconds left in the first extra period. In the second OT, Williams scored 12 of his career-high 42 points, including two three-pointers.

UNC 74, Tennessee 69
March 24, 2000

Carolina was unranked for the first time in 10 years and entered the NCAA Tournament as the No. 8 seed. The Tar Heels trailed 10th-ranked Tennessee, 39-36, at halftime of the regional semifinal. The Vols led by two when UNC center Brendan Haywood fouled out with 8:03 left and led, 64-57, with 4:48 to play. But freshman Joseph Forte hit a three-pointer and Jason Capel had a steal and lay-up to make it 64-62 with 3:41 left. Ed Cota tied the game on a driving lay-up and followed with a jumper to give UNC the lead with 1:59 left. Forte, Julius Peppers and Cota each hit two free throws in the final 0:34 to cap a 15-3 Tar Heel run and a 74-69 win.

UNC 70, Wake Forest 69
January 6, 2001

Brendan Haywood grabbed a loose ball in the lane and scored with 3.3 seconds to play to give the Tar Heels the win over No. 4-ranked and previously undefeated Wake Forest. Haywood finished with 24 points and 10 rebounds. His basket marked the fourth lead change in the final 1:22.

UNC 85, Duke 83
February 1, 2001

Joseph Forte had 24 points, 16 rebounds (a UNC record for guards), six assists and three steals. The Tar Heels blistered the Cameron Indoor Stadium nets by shooting 51.5 percent from the floor. Carolina led by as many as 13 in the first half, but Duke took the lead midway through the second half. Ronald Curry scored six straight points in 48 seconds to give the Tar Heels a 63-59 lead. UNC later built a seven-point lead, but the Blue Devils tied the score with three seconds left. On the ensuing inbounds play, Shane Battier fouled Brendan Haywood and the UNC seven-footer hit both free throws with one second left for the win.

FANTASTIC FINISHES

UNC 86, Connecticut 83
January 17, 2004

Rashad McCants scored 27 points against the Huskies for the second straight year and for the second year in a row the Tar Heels upset Connecticut in the Smith Center. McCants scored the last 10 points of the game for Carolina, including a three-pointer with just over six seconds to play. The Huskies would go on to win the national championship. It was Roy Williams' first win as UNC's head coach over a No. 1 ranked team.

UNC 75, Duke 73
March 6, 2005

Carolina trailed, 73-64, after Blue Devil forward Lee Melchionni hit a three with 3:03 to play. But the Tar Heels outscored Duke, 11-0, the rest of the way to clinch the regular-season ACC title. Trailing by two with less than 30 seconds to play, David Noel stripped Daniel Ewing of the ball and Raymond Felton grabbed the loose ball and called timeout. On the ensuing possession, Felton hit the first of two free throws, Marvin Williams rebounded his missed second free throw and scored the go-ahead basket with 17 seconds to play. Sean May led UNC with 26 points and 24 rebounds.

UNC 75, Illinois 70
April 4, 2005

Final Four MVP Sean May led UNC with 26 points and 10 rebounds, while Raymond Felton's and Marvin Williams' late heroics gave Roy Williams his first NCAA title. Marvin Williams broke a 70-all tie with a tip-in basket with 1:27 to play. Leading 72-70, Felton, who earlier hit a three-pointer to break a 65-65 tie, stole an Illini pass with 31 seconds to play and hit three of four free throws to cap the win.

Marvin Williams' three-point play clinched the 2005 win over Duke.

UNC vs. Clemson
2007-08 Regular Season

Carolina beat Clemson in a pair of close games during the 2007-08 regular season. In the first meeting on Jan. 6, 2008, in Clemson, Wayne Ellington hit a three-pointer with 0.4 seconds remaining in overtime to give UNC a 90-88 win. Ellington scored a career-high 36 points in the game, connecting on five three-pointers. The final shot by Ellington marked UNC's first late game-winner since David Noel rattled in a three-pointer with 1.8 seconds left on Nov. 19, 2005, to beat Gardner-Webb in the Smith Center and marked Carolina's first overtime win under head coach Roy Williams.

In the return matchup in Chapel Hill on Feb. 10, Tyler Hansbrough scored 13 of his 39 points in the two overtime periods as Carolina rallied from 15 points down to beat the Tigers, 103-93, in double overtime. The Tar Heels trailed by 11 points with 3:12 left to play in regulation before scoring nine straight points to cut the lead to 79-77. Quentin Thomas hit a driving layup to force the first overtime and UNC eventually won in the second extra stanza.

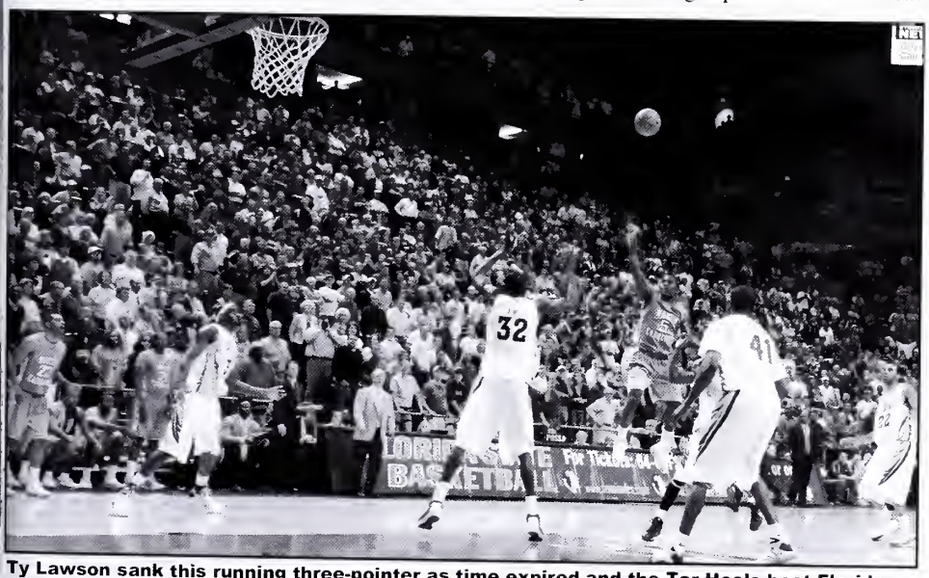
UNC 80, Florida State 77
Jan. 28, 2009

Ty Lawson sank a game-winning three-pointer as time expired to beat Florida State, 80-77, in Tallahassee in a game in which UNC led by 11 at the half, but trailed by as many as five with less than seven minutes to play. Danny Green's steal and three-point play tied the game at 77 with 1:12 to play, then Tyler Hansbrough forced a turnover by Toney Douglas with 3.2 seconds remaining. Hansbrough inbounded the ball to Lawson, who raced from his own free throw line to just outside the top of the key before launching a floater that found the bottom of the net as the buzzer rang.

2011 ACC Tournament

The Tar Heels trailed by 19 points against Miami in the quarterfinals but rallied for a 61-59 win on a buzzer-beating layup by Tyler Zeller after a drive and pass from freshman point guard Kendall Marshall. It was the largest comeback by UNC in ACC Tournament history. The Hurricanes led, 53-34, with 9:51 to play but Carolina scored 27 of the final 33 points.

The next day, fourth-seeded Clemson led the No. 1-seeded Tar Heels, 38-28, at the half before UNC rallied again for a 92-87 win in overtime. The 10-point halftime deficit is the largest Carolina has ever overcome to win at the ACC Tournament. Harrison Barnes scored 40 points, including 14 in overtime, to tie the ACC freshman scoring record and set a record for freshman scoring in an ACC Tournament game.



Ty Lawson sank this running three-pointer as time expired and the Tar Heels beat Florida State, 80-77, on Jan. 28, 2009.

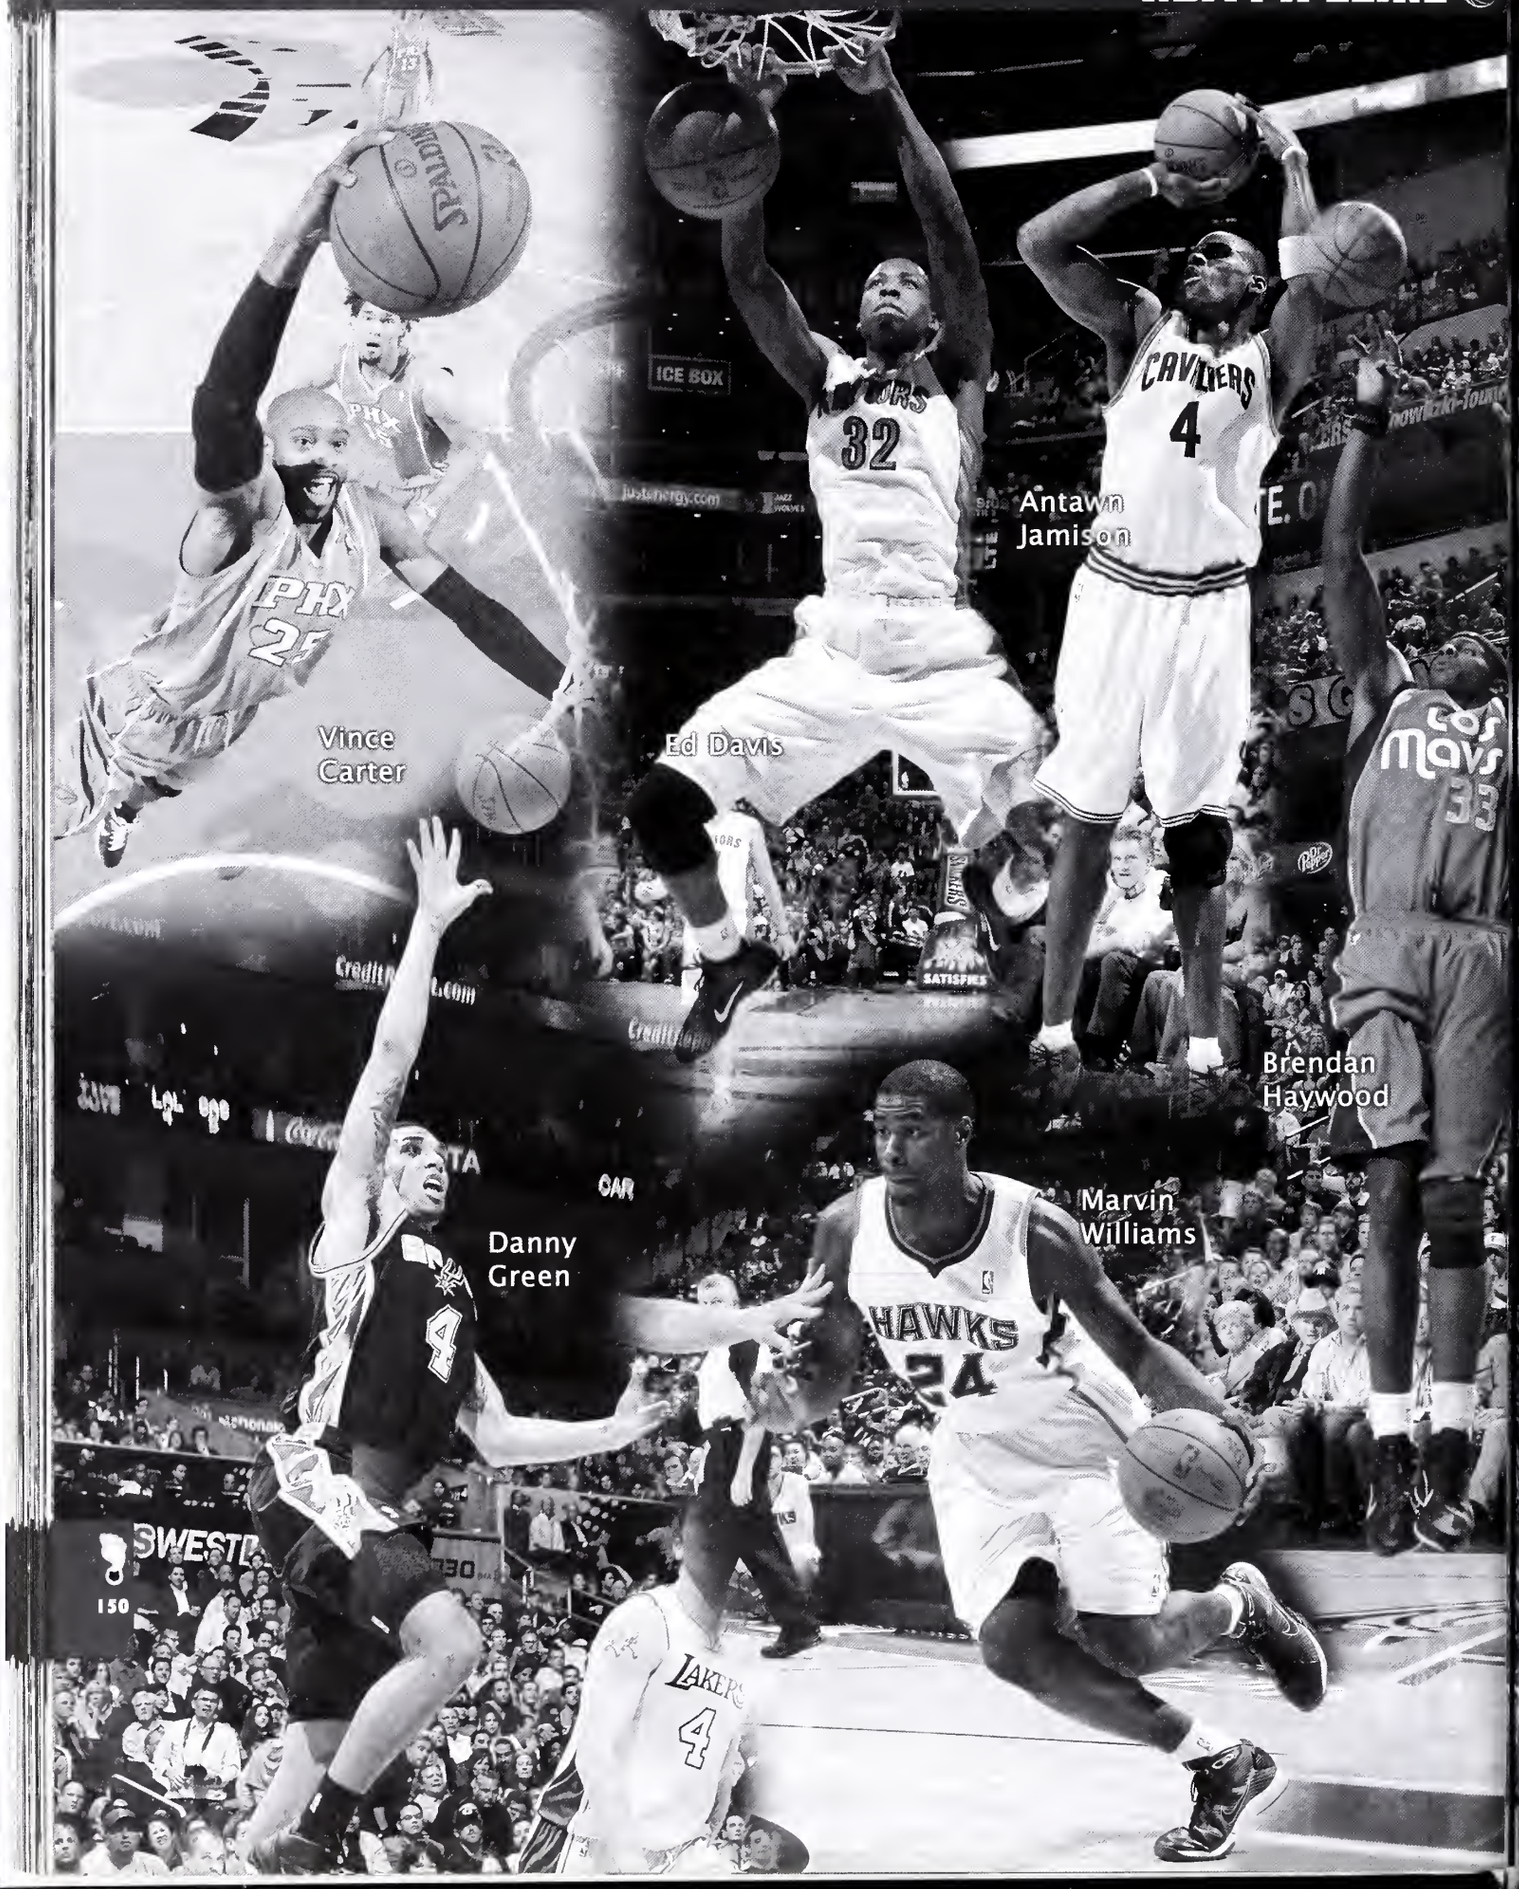
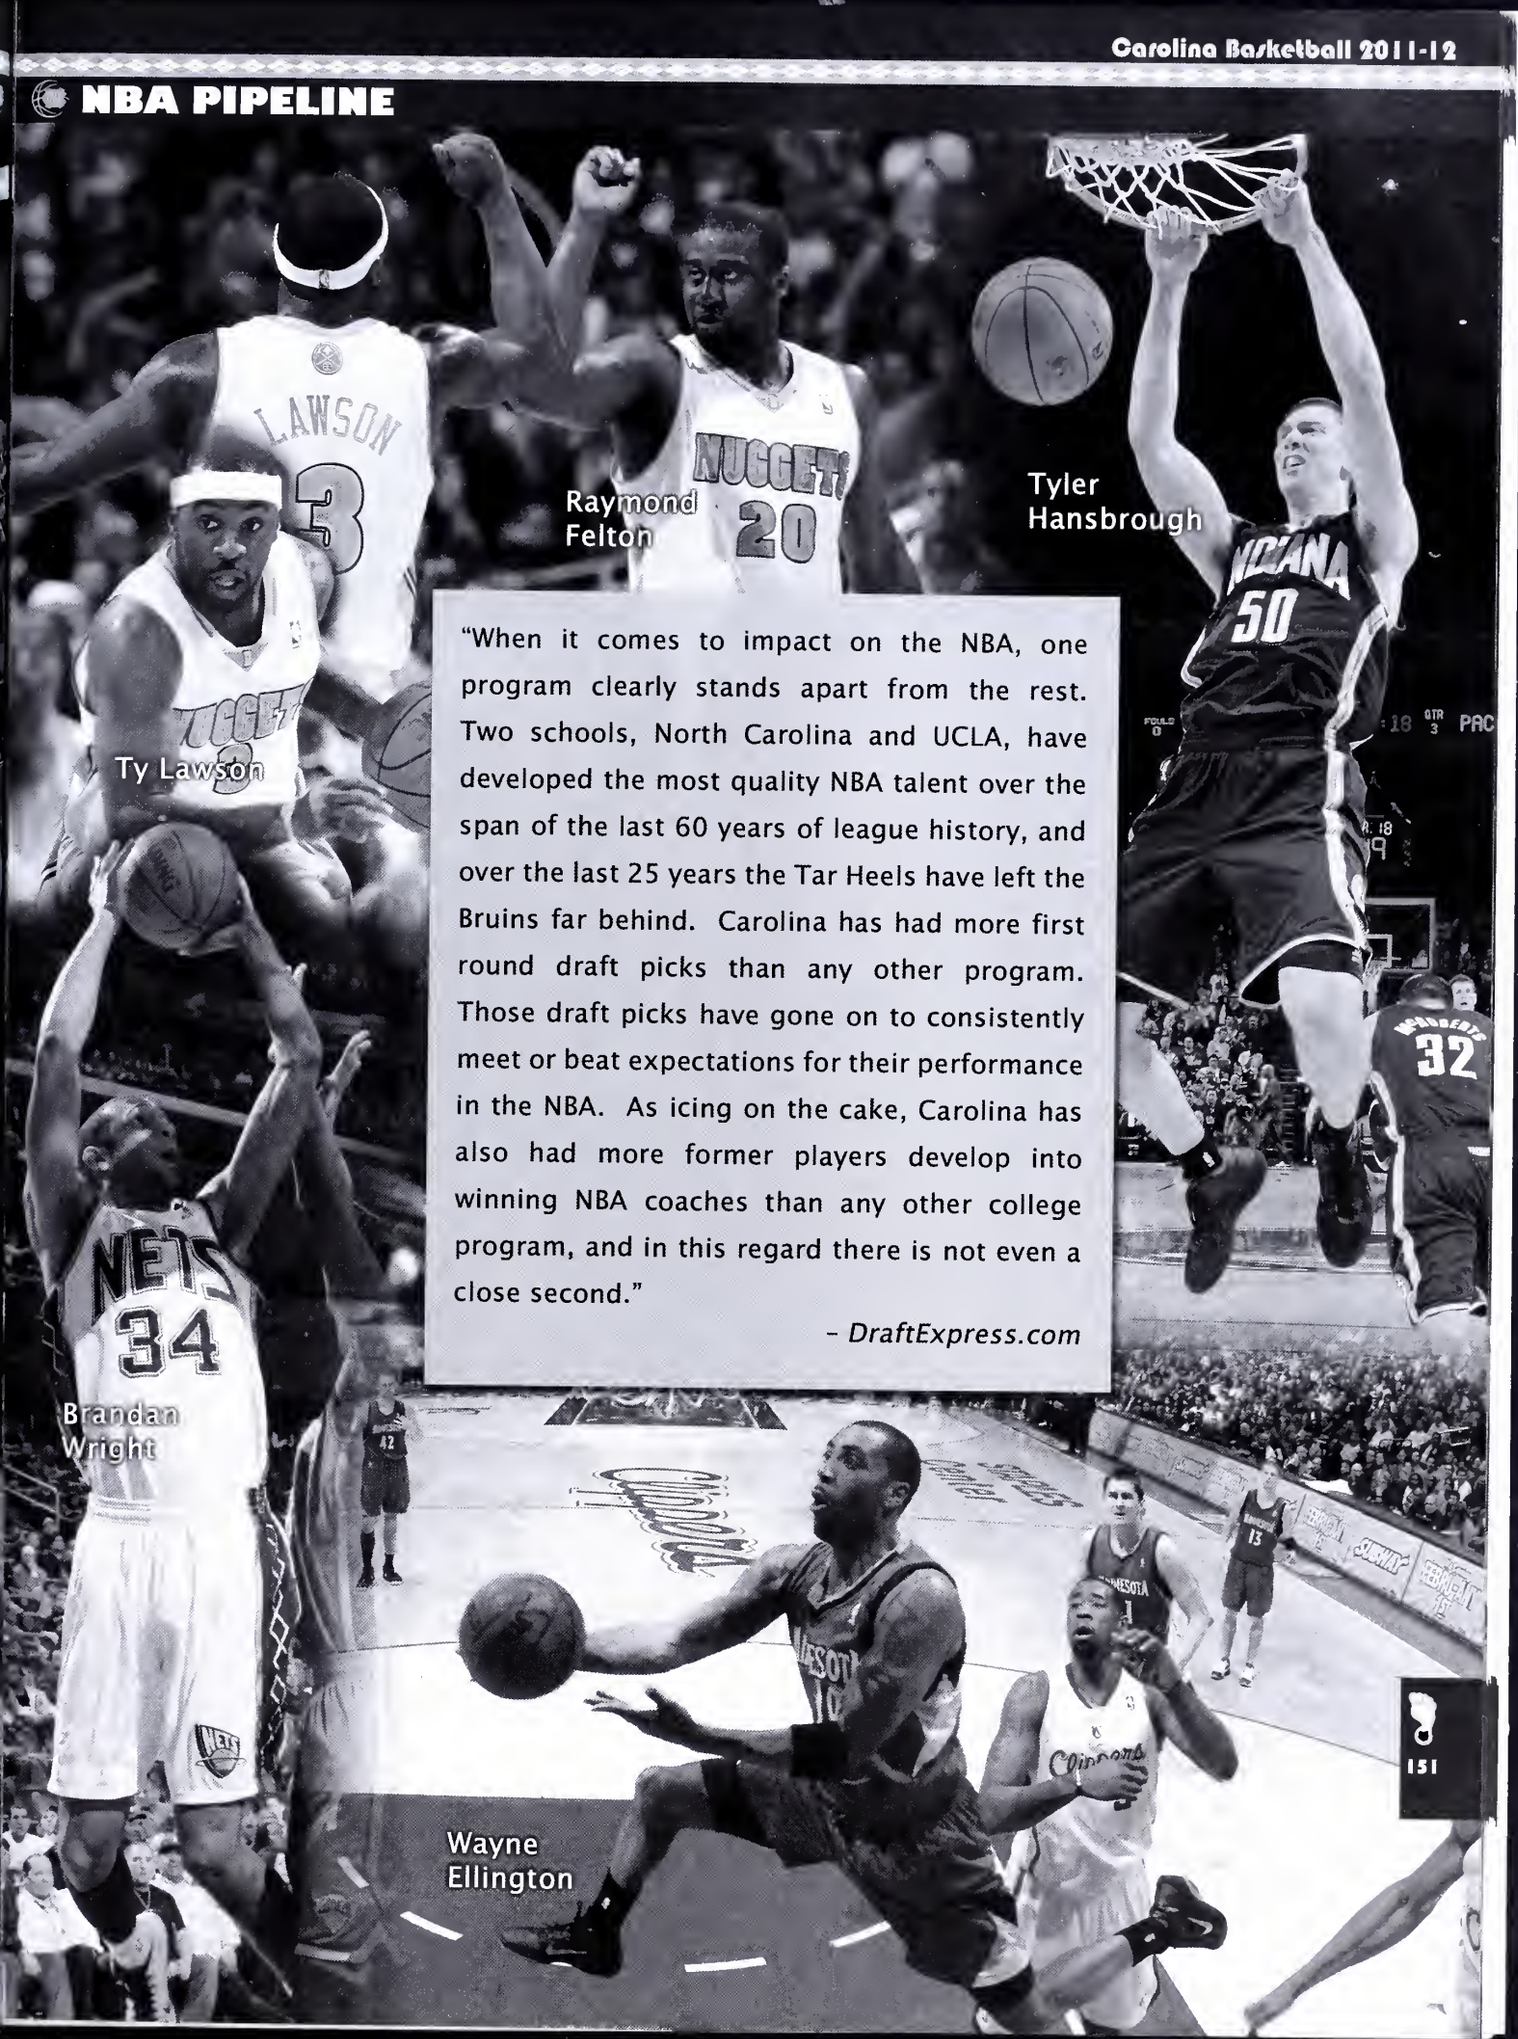
NBA PIPELINE



NBA PIPELINE



"When it comes to impact on the NBA, one program clearly stands apart from the rest. Two schools, North Carolina and UCLA, have developed the most quality NBA talent over the span of the last 60 years of league history, and over the last 25 years the Tar Heels have left the Bruins far behind. Carolina has had more first round draft picks than any other program. Those draft picks have gone on to consistently meet or beat expectations for their performance in the NBA. As icing on the cake, Carolina has also had more former players develop into winning NBA coaches than any other college program, and in this regard there is not even a close second."

COACHING HISTORY

FRANK McGUIRE

Frank McGuire came to Chapel Hill prior to the 1952-53 season after five seasons at St. John's. His 1952 team had reached the NCAA championship game before losing to Kansas.

His nine-year record was 164-58. Carolina finished first or tied for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference standings five times in this period.

With his many contacts among New York high school coaches, he developed a pipeline of top talent for Carolina. This "underground railroad" brought players like Lennie Rosenbluth, Tommy Kearns, Pete Brennan, Joe Quigg and Bob Cunningham to Chapel Hill. They were the starters on McGuire's greatest team — the 1957 squad that went 32-0 and swept the NCAA title.

McGuire also brought New York-area stars like York Larese, Doug Moe, Donnie Walsh, Larry Brown and Billy Cunningham to Carolina.

COACHING HIGHLIGHTS
✓ Is the only coach in history to win ACC championships at two different schools.
✓ Is a member of the Naismith Hall of Fame
✓ Coached Carolina to the 1957 NCAA championship
✓ Was a three-time national coach of the year.

The highlight of McGuire's Tar Heel career was the 1957 season. Rosenbluth was one of the national scoring leaders, averaging 28.0 points a game. Of Carolina's 32 victories, 13 were by 10 points or less.

The 1957 Final Four in Kansas City is regarded as one of the most exciting ever played. Carolina topped Michigan State, 74-40, in a triple-overtime semifinal game. The next game the Tar Heels had to go three overtimes again before outlasting Kansas, featuring Wilt Chamberlain, 54-53.

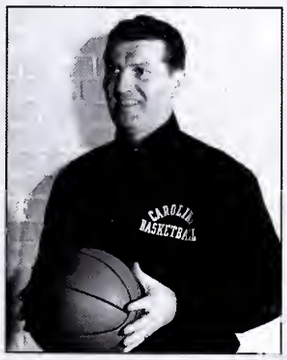
McGuire hired Dean Smith to be his top assistant prior to the 1958-59 season. Smith replaced McGuire when he moved to the NBA in 1961.

As coach of the Philadelphia Warriors, he led his team to a 49-31 record. The Warriors—with Hall of Famers Paul Arizin, Tom Gola and Chamberlain—lost to the Boston Celtics in the Eastern Conference finals.

McGuire returned to the college ranks for the 1964-65 season at South Carolina. He compiled a 283-142 record in 16 seasons with the Gamecocks. That gave him a career record of 549-236 in 30 years. He led South Carolina to its only ACC regular-season title in 1970 and only ACC Tournament championship in 1971.

McGuire, a member of the Naismith Hall of Fame, was the first coach in history to win 100 games at three schools and also to take two schools to the NCAA championship game. He remains the only man in history to win ACC titles at two schools.

He was named national coach of the year three times—in 1952 at St. John's, 1957 at Carolina and 1970 at South Carolina.



McGuire led the Tar Heels to the 1957 NCAA title.

BILL GUTHRIDGE

Bill Guthridge led the Tar Heels to two Final Fours in three years as head coach and was consensus National Coach of the Year in 1998. He won more games than any college head coach in history after two seasons and tied Everett Case for most coaching victories after three years. He played or coached in 14 Final Fours, more than any person in NCAA history. That includes two as a head coach at Carolina, 10 as a Tar Heel assistant coach, and one each as a player and assistant coach at his alma mater, Kansas State.

Guthridge was Dean Smith's assistant for 30 years. He joined the UNC staff in 1967 after five years as assistant to Tex Winter at Kansas State. In his 33 seasons at Carolina, the Tar Heels won two NCAA championships (1982 and 1993), played in 12 Final Fours, won the ACC Tournament championship 13 times and played in the ACC Tournament championship game a total of 22 times.

He was a part of 867 wins in 33 seasons at Carolina and 960 college coaching victories overall, including 93 wins on the staff at Kansas State.

The Parsons, Kan., native posted an 80-28 record in three seasons as Carolina's head coach. Guthridge led the 1998 and 2000 UNC teams to the Final Four. He joined Ohio State's Fred Taylor as just the second man in history to lead teams to two Final Fours in his first three seasons as a head coach. He was named National Coach of the Year in 1997-98 by the National Association of Basketball Coaches, the Atlanta Tipoff Club (Naismith Award), CBS/Chevrolet, the Columbus (Ohio) Touchdown Club and The Sporting News. That year, UNC went 34-4 and Guthridge set the NCAA record for wins by a first-year head coach with 34. He directed UNC to the 1998 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championship and was named the ACC Coach of the Year.

He coached 1997-98 National Player of the Year Antawn Jamison and 1998-99 NBA Rookie of the Year Vince Carter, both of whom entered the NBA Draft after their junior seasons. In his tenure at UNC, he coached five National Players of the Year, six ACC Players of the Year, five ACC Rookies of the Year and 28 first-team All-ACC players. He also coached 66 players who were selected in the NBA and/or ABA Drafts.

Guthridge was an assistant coach along with Hall of Famer John Thompson under Dean Smith in 1976 when the United States won the Olympic gold medal in Montreal.

CAROLINA IN THE AP POLL

Sally Sather

The 1981-82 team spent 11 weeks at No. 1, topping the preseason and final polls and winning the NCAA championship.

CAROLINA AND THE AP POLL

◆ Since the inception of the Associated Press poll prior to the 1948-49 season, Carolina basketball has been a fixture in the rankings of the nation's elite. The Tar Heels have been ranked in the AP poll 782 times, more than any school in the nation.

◆ Carolina has been ranked in the top 10 of the AP poll for 602 weeks, most in ACC history.

◆ The Tar Heels have achieved a top-10 ranking in the AP poll for at least one week in 49 of the poll's 63 seasons, including 43 of the last 45.

◆ Carolina has finished in the top 10 of the AP poll 33 times, including 22 of the last 31 years.

THE TAR HEELS AND THE NO. 1 RANKING IN THE AP POLL

◆ The March 9, 2009, poll was the 105th in which the Tar Heels were No. 1 in the AP rankings. That is third-best all-time behind UCLA (134) and Duke (111).

◆ Carolina has an all-time record of 180-30 as the No. 1 team in the AP poll.

◆ UNC, which was the first-ever unanimous preseason No. 1 in the AP poll in 2008-09, also took the top spot in the preseason AP poll in 2007-08. UNLV (1989-90 and 1990-91) is the only other school to be ranked preseason No. 1 in back-to-back campaigns.

◆ The Tar Heels in 2008-09 were the first unanimous preseason No. 1 pick by the AP since the preseason poll began in 1981-82.

◆ Carolina has been ranked No. 1 in the final AP poll six times — in 2007-08, 1997-98, 1993-94, 1983-84, 1981-82 and 1956-57.

◆ Prior to UNC in 2008-09, the last time a school began No. 1 in the preseason AP poll after finishing No. 1 in the previous season's final AP poll was Duke (No. 1 in the final AP poll of 2000-01 and No. 1 in the preseason AP poll of 2001-02).

◆ The 2008-09 preseason AP poll also marked Carolina's record sixth time atop the preseason rankings, most of any school in the nation. Duke is second with five. UNC was also No. 1 in the initial AP poll in 1981-82, 1983-84, 1986-87, 1993-94 and 2007-08.

◆ The Tar Heels have spent a combined 23 weeks ranked No. 1 in the AP poll over the past three seasons—and had spent a combined 22 weeks ranked No. 1 in the AP poll in the 14 seasons prior to that.

◆ Carolina has been ranked No. 1 in the AP poll in three of the last four seasons and eight of the last 18 campaigns.

◆ The No. 1 ranking in 2008-09 marked the 18th different season in which the Tar Heels have reached the No. 1 spot in at least one AP poll. Carolina has been ranked No. 1 by the AP in the following seasons: 1956-57, 1957-58, 1958-59, 1977-78, 1981-82, 1982-83, 1983-84, 1985-86, 1986-87, 1987-88, 1992-93, 1993-94, 1994-95, 1997-98, 2000-01, 2006-07, 2007-08 and 2008-09.

◆ The 2008-09 campaign was the 10th season in 22 years as a head coach that Roy Williams has guided his team to No. 1 in the AP poll for at least one week.

◆ Williams has a 42-5 record as head coach at Carolina in 24 weeks as the No. 1 team in the AP poll

◆ Prior to 2007-08 and 2008-09, Williams-led teams had never captured the top spot in the preseason AP poll. Kansas was never preseason No. 1 by the AP during Williams' tenure.

◆ Carolina has defeated the No. 1 team in the AP poll 12 times, most in NCAA history.

INTERVIEWS & PRACTICE

All requests for interviews must be made through the athletic communications office. Contact Kirschner with interview requests for Roy Williams or to attend practice. Throughout the season Williams holds regular press conferences at the Smith Center. These typically begin at 2 p.m. and parking is located in the Manning Lot off Tar Heel Boulevard. Out-of-town media may watch press conferences live on TarHeelBlue.com and ask questions by contacting Kirschner or Matt Bowers in advance. Due to contractual obligations, Williams is unable to participate in live radio call-in shows.

Media should make player interview requests to Matt Bowers. Player interviews occur before practice. Newcomers are available to the media once they've played in a regular-season game.

Players are not available for interviews on game day or on non-practice days. Players will not participate in radio call-in shows, but are available to tape radio interviews.

POSTGAME PRESS CONFERENCES

The athletic communications staff assigns shooting locations around the court. Specific requests for special camera placements should be made in advance to Kirschner or Camarati. For safety reasons, cameras are not permitted on the blue padding on the basket supports. Floor remotes must be removable. They may not be fixed to the floor and will only be allowed if a photographer is seated with the camera.
